Ike To Unveil Defense Spending Plan Today

Truman's Budget Figures Due For Slash

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The White House said today President Eisenhower will "make a major pronouncement on the defense of the United States and a program for that defense," at a news conference tomorrow afternoon.

This word was given to newsmen by James C. Hagerty, press secretary, who made clear in response to newsmen's questions that the President would disclose the administration's long - awaited defense spending laws.

Hagerty said the president's statement will be made after morning conferences with Republican congressional leaders and with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making group on defense matters.

Confident Cut Possible

Eisenhower told his news conference last week he is confident that defense spending can be cut, but he declined to estimate how much might be trimmed off the 46 billion dollar defense budget recommended by former President Truman for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

While the President plans to announce an over-all defense spending figure, there was no certainty he will break the amount down into various categories — such as amounts for each of the armed services and for foreign aid.

Foreign Aid Slash Due

Eisenhower said during the election campaign and has repeated many times since that in his opinion one of the great problems confronting this country is the job of meeting the huge cost of defense.

The subject is known to have come up almost every week at security council and cabinet meetings, as well as at sessions with congressional leaders.

Meanwhile, the administration was reported preparing to ask Congress for about $5,800,000,000 for foreign aid—military and economic—to nearly 60 friendly governments.

This sum, tentatively approved at a White House meeting yesterday, is $1,800,000,000 less than Truman recommended in his farewell budget.

More Ex-POWs May Start Home Today

TOKYO, April 30 (Thursday) (INS)—The second group of homebound American war repatriates is scheduled to take off from Japan some time today or early tomorrow.

The number of men who will make the flight was not announced immediately, but it was believed to be more than 30.

Soviet Bloc Told To Clear Decks For Trade War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet press in effect is instructing the Communist world to clear the decks for a mighty economic offensive to broaden and hasten Red domination of weak nations.

The current peace offensive can be expected to merge with a trade war. The Soviet bloc apparently hopes to invade foreign markets with great quantities of goods, undercutting Western European prices.

Slogans Stress Production

Editions of the Soviet press containing slogans for tomorrow's international May Day observance have just arrived in this country. The slogans, taking up entire front pages, and the comment accompanying them, put the emphasis on production, production and more production.

There is little pretense in the appeals at satisfying domestic consumer needs. In the streamlining of this year's slogans, many former appeals concerning production of such things as shoes, clothing, textiles and other consumer goods have been dropped.

Caution At Home

But at the same time the new regime of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov still moves cautiously at home. The slogans and the comment thereon underscore this. For the home front the slogans were softened considerably even since last November, when the Bolshevik revolution holiday appeals were published.

For example, last November the greetings to the trade unions demanded stepped up competition for overfulfillment of plan and spreading of the Stakhanovite (speed-up) methods. This year's trade union greeting was limited to one line: "Long live Soviet trade unions, schools of communism."

Top Demos Rap "McCarthyism," GOP "Giveaway"

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Prominent Democrats keynoted the party's future line of battle tonight by denouncing what they called "creeping McCarthyism" and a Republican "give away" of natural resources.

They took the closing of the "first 100 days" of President Eisenhower's GOP administration as the signal to open national debate and outline party strategy for the 1954 congressional and 1956 presidential election campaigns.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, former Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter and other speakers ended any semblance of a two party honeymoon in speeches prepared for delivery at a Democratic State Committee dinner in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Probers Criticized

Lehman struck at what he termed "would-be thought control police of congressional investigating committees."

"What a spectacle we present to the rest of the world!" he exclaimed. "We have convinced our own people that this great democracy of ours is honeycombed with traitors, spies, subversives and sexual deviates.

"Our democracy is portrayed as so weak a system that it must devote all its internal energies to investigation, recrimination and denunciation."

Lehman declared the Bill of Rights was being abridged "by indirection, innuendo, smear and attack," and that this was the achievement of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, Sen. William Jenner of Indiana and others of "their ilk."

Civil Rights Issue

Finletter, also indicating that the Democrats would hit hard on the civil rights issue in forthcoming campaigns, said:

"An evil force is loose in the land. . . . Any party which, for party unity or fancied political advantage, fails to take a stand on this issue is misjudging the American people."

Finletter, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for New York City mayor or governor of New York state, said certain other broad issues "are emerging" on the national scene.

"We see the attempt of the Republicans to give away the great natural wealth of the nation—the oil of the tidelands as well as the power of the Niagara and the St. Lawrence to the privileged few," he said.

Discrimination Ban In T-H Urged

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asked today that Congress write into the Taft-Hartley Law a ban "against unreasonable discrimination based on race."

Testifying before the Senate Labor Committee, he proposed an amendment to the law making it an unfair labor practice for an employer or labor union "to discriminate against or segregate any member of the labor organization or any member of the craft or class of employees . . . with respect to referrals for hiring, firing, upgrading, promotions, layoffs" and other "purposes of the act."

Mitchell said "only a few unions have outright prohibitions against the admission of colored members" but that "many of them exclude colored members in certain localities as a matter of practice."

Sen. Ives (R-NY) commented that such an amendment would "go two-thirds toward total victory" in protecting employment rights for all American citizens.

Miner's Shot Through Door At 'Prowler' Kills Daughter

CLAIRFIELD, Tenn., April 29 (AP) —A coal miner thought someone was trying to break into his remote mountain cabin last night and fired through the front door with a .38-caliber pistol. He killed his 13-year-old daughter, who apparently was walking in her sleep.

"Oh, God, I wonder what I've done!" he exclaimed.

Grief-stricken, Clifford Taylor, 34, stared despondently at the ground in a pasture near the cabin, about five miles from this mining community near Middlesboro, Ky., and about 30 air miles north of Knoxville.

"I don't want to talk about it," he said today. "It's such a terrible thing." He refused to go near the cabin.

Dead was Edna Marie Taylor, who had walked in her sleep before. She was shot through the heart.

Her mother told this story:

It was about 11 p.m. when Taylor was awakened by a rattling at the front door of the cabin.

"Who's there?" he demanded. There was no answer. Taylor fired through the door, striking the girl.

Grant Taylor, 79-year-old grandfather of the girl, said she staggered about 15 feet away and fell. She was dead when the family arrived.

The grandfather sat at the edge of the road today, whittling on a piece of wood. A pile of shavings rose a foot high between his knees as he spoke:

"She was the best friend I had in the world. She washed my clothes and read to me. I don't know what I'm going to do without her."

The girl had quit school and was helping her parents at home. The Taylors have three other children; James Edward, 8; Geraldine, 7, and Lillie Madeline, 2.

Sheriff Dan L. Chumbley of Claiborne County drove here today to speak with Taylor, but left soon afterward. No charges were filed.

Vanguard Of 149 Yank POWs Freed By Reds Arrives In U. S.

Emotion-Choked GIs Are Greeted By Band And Jets

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., April 29 (AP)—Sped home by pushing tail winds, 35 Americans freed in Korea by the Red arrived today in a huge transport plane—the joyous vanguard of 149 released sick and ailing U. S. prisoners of war.

Some of the emotion-choked service men—26 walking patients, nine on stretchers—got their first glimpse of their homeland in more than two years while a band blared and jet planes buzzed a welcome from overhead.

Sgt. Edward G. Anderson, of Alabama City, Ala., led the walking patients down the ramp after the big C97 Stratocruiser taxied to a stop at the end of a swift 8-hour, 20-minute flight from Hickam Field, Honolulu.

Rushed To Hospital

His face protected by a white mask, Pfc. John M. Jankovits, of Philadelphia, was the first of the nine litter patients carried off to a waiting hospital ambulance.

Knowing the desire of each man to get home as soon as possible, service officials put a hurry-up plan into immediate operation. All 35 were rushed to a hospital on this Air Force base 60 miles northeast of San Francisco for a steak dinner and medical examination.

All but those requiring specialized treatment will be sped either to their homes in the 22 states they represent or to hospitals nearest their homes. Even those needing special treatment will be on their way to a specialized hospital center within 48 hours.

Newsmen Waved Aside

In Korea, Sgt. Odie Lawley, of Medicine Park, Okla., one of today's arrivals, had told how he was captured Nov. 30, 1950 and watched fellow Americans die on a wintry forced march of 13 days. In the Hawaii stopover, the men had related how they had missed most American home-cooked food. But all 35 fell silent today at the dramatic moment when they first touched mainland soil.

By a decision reached before the big plane droned out from over the Pacific across the Golden Gate bridge, the men waved aside newsmen seeking interviews at the plane. It was a moment too treasured for words.

Thousands lined the field and cheered and a military band played "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and "California Here I Come" as Maj. Sherod A Santos gently brought down his precious cargo.

Repatriated POWs Return To Homeland

"Trade Not Aid" Urged By C. Of C.

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce, endorsing a strong "trade, not aid" policy, called on the government today to halt its program of foreign economic assistance.

The chamber declared in favor of the renewal of the trade agreements act, tariff reduction and repeal of "buy American" legislation on grounds that expanded trade can make up Europe's dollar deficit instead of tax dollars.

There is a difference between economic aid and military aid. The latter provides weapons of war for countries allied with the U. S. against communism.

The delegates endorsed a pending resolution by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to restrain the treaty-making power, even though Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith had told them it would "tie the hands" of the President.

Bricker told the chamber later that Smith's statement was "misleading." He said his resolution would in no way hamper the administration in its conduct of foreign policy.

Pollution Control Cut From Budget

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has withdrawn a Truman budget request for $900,000 for water pollution control grants to the states.

Thus for the second straight year the program is faced with a financial shutout.

Last year Congress refused to appropriate any money for grants that are used for research on control of industrial waste poured into lakes and streams.

Asia Is World's Most Dangerous Spot, Dulles Says

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—Secretary of State Dulles told Congress today the Far East is now the world's most dangerous spot and assured the American people that Europe is no longer a "pushover" for Communist aggression.

Dulles, in a radio-TV report on the North Atlantic pact meeting in Paris, said the United States "could not sit idly by" in case of an attack on Western Europe but that the Eisenhower administration believes "prevention is cheaper than cure."

NATO A-Training Planned

The European defense program, he added, will cost less than the amount called for in the Truman budget but will include:

1. Training within NATO on the use of new tactical weapons, including atomic weapons.

2. Fifty new airfields to be completed this year in Europe to provide wider dispersion of aircraft.

3. A network of air bases, pipelines, supply depots and radio communications and radar to include all NATO countries.

The "Big Gap"

Dulles added that the "big gap" in the continental defense program is the lack of German forces but that delays in ratification of the six-power EDC treaty "strains our patience but should not break it."

The secretary was less optimistic about Southeast Asia and the Communist invasion of Laos in closed door testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and said that more arms will be sent to Indochina and the French forces.

U. S. War Casualties Increase To 134,410

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—The Defense Department reported today 623 more American casualties in Korea and showed a decrease of 30 in the number of men officially listed as captured.

The weekly summary, which brought total U. S. casualties since the start of the war to 134,410, indicated that perhaps no more than half of the captives returned by the Communists had been listed officially as prisoners.

The new total is made up of 23,869 dead; 97,658 non-fatally wounded; 11,407 missing, including the known prisoners; and 1,476 men who have "returned to U. S. military control" after being missing for extended periods.

Runaway Truck Derails Train Car

BRAMWELL, W. Va., April 29 (AP)—A truck loaded with heavy mine timbers sped down a precipitous section of U. S. Route 52 here today and smashed into a slowly moving coal train, derailing one car.

The driver, Guy Baker, 33, of Ripplemead, Va., escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Baker said the brakes failed on the downgrade, forcing him to steer the big truck over the curving road for about a quarter of a mile before the crash.

Baker leaped from the cab of his vehicle seconds before the collision, witnesses said, and rolled either through the separated train or under one of the cars. The train was halted by the crash.

Fighting In Korea Drops To Low Ebb

SEOUL, Thursday, April 30 (AP)—Rains pelted the inactive Korean battle front Wednesday as ground fighting dropped to a low ebb and most Allied war planes were grounded.

There was speculation that the opposing forces were taking it easy while truce negotiators at Panmunjom tried to arrange an armistice.

South Korean raiders killed or wounded 38 North Koreans and destroyed six Communist bunkers in two early morning dashes into Red lines on the Far Eastern Front.

The Reds struck back with five jabs at Allied lines —three in the east and two in the west.

10 Die In Crash Of Bomber; Five 'Chute To Safety

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A B29 bomber simulating combat caught fire and crashed six miles south of its home base today, killing 10 fliers.

Five parachuted to safety.

Charles Smith Jr. said he saw the crash from a mile and a half away. He said one engine in the right wing was afire. The big four-engine bomber wobbled crazily, nosed down into a near somersault and plowed into the ground.

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area. Nine bodies were found in and near the debris when rescuers reached the scene. Later a 10th body was found under a tail section.

The B29 was from Randolph Air Force base here. Authorities there withheld names of the dead until next of kin could be notified.

Animal Threat Ended

LONDON, April 29 (AP) — Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton said today the danger that baboons and wild pigs would take over administration of parts of the Gambia protectorate in Africa has been averted.

He told the House of Commons that up to the end of 1952 over 50,000 baboons, 26,000 destructive monkeys and 25,000 wild pigs had been killed in an effort to protect crops.

'Keep Praying' For Captives Of Reds, Says Returned GI

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., April 29 (AP)—"Keep praying for the guys over there still in Communist hands."

A U. S. soldier, arriving home today after more than two years as a prisoner of the Reds in Korea, spoke the words in a noisy, theatrical mass interview with some 60 radio, TV and news correspondents.

With four others, Pfc. Raymond H. Medina, the Bronx, N. Y., sat in a big auditorium of this Air Force base hospital to talk about captivity and freedom amid a scene of wild confusion.

The five were among 35 brought in today by a huge transport plane from Hawaii, the first sick and ailing prisoners to complete their trip from captivity to freedom in their homeland.

They blinked under the glare of floodlights.

They strove to speak into an army of microphones thrust at them.

Medina said "I want to thank God because I know He heard my mother's prayers and that is why I am here today."

He was captured Dec. 9, 1950, while with the 3rd Division, but preferred to think more of the future than the past.

Airman 2C Robert L. Weinbrandt of El Cajon, Calif., a double amputee and a litter patient, told of spending four months with a Chinese military company after bailing out of a B29 shot down by Red fighter planes.

Cpl. Theodore Jackson, of Palestine, Tex., told about the Red captors holding classes on communism.

"Maybe some of the men pretended to believe the stuff to get better treatment but I don't know of anyone who really swallowed the line," said the slightly built Negro.

Pvt. Jose Garcia, of Los Angeles, who is blind in his right eye because of a hand grenade blast, kept nervously looking away while being interviewed—and for a very good reason. He was waiting for a telephone connection so he could talk to his mother.

The fifth man in the mass interview, Alberto Pizarro of Rio Piere, Puerto Rico, talked about his capture Oct. 6, 1952, on "The Hook," an outpost on the Western Front. He was among 200 at a hospital and recalled unhappily "we never got any mail."

Asian Nation Unacceptable As Custodian

Harrison Points Out Communist-Controlled Countries' Proximity

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, April 30 (AP)—The Allies today rejected any Asiatic nation as a neutral to supervise Communist prisoners of war who do not want to return to Red rule.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. said no Asiatic nation would be acceptable because all Asian countries "are located very close to countries dominated by Communists and might therefore be subjected to Communist military, economic or political influence."

The senior Allied negotiator made his position clear during a 51-minute truce session with the Communists in the conference hut. Both sides agreed to meet again tomorrow at 11 a. m.

After four days of maneuvering, three of them without progress, the Allied and Communist delegations appeared to be reaching the hard bargaining stage in their efforts to write an armistice agreement.

Reds Ease Time Demand

In Wednesday's 64-minute meeting, the Communists agreed to ease their demands for a six-month questioning period in a foreign neutral country of all prisoners refusing to return home voluntarily.

The U. N. Command said 60 days was long enough to determine the attitude of the prisoners. The Allies want the prisoners left in Korea pending settlement of their future.

In Tokyo, a high Allied scource suggested a possible compromise on this point: Leave the North Korean prisoners on the peninsula but send the Chinese to a neutral nation.

President Syngman Rhee of South Korea made virtually the same suggestion in Seoul Wednesday. He told a news conference he would insist on Koreans remaining in their own country, but was agreeable to removal of the Chinese prisoners.

Reds Reject Switzerland

Another point at issue was the selection of the neutral nation to take custody of the prisoners refusing repatriation.

The Allies proposed Switzerland but the Communists rejected that nomination.

On Wednesday the chief Communist negotiator, Korean Gen. Nam Il, said the Reds favored an Asiatic country as neutral custodian.

This provoked speculation that India had been approached by Red China and North Korea.

Ships Checked For Atom Bomb

WASHINGTON, April 20 (INS)—Congress was informed today that the U. S. Coast Guard is checking "suspicious" foreign vessels with Geiger counters but that the device "might not be effective in locating an atomic bomb."

The testimony came from Rear Admiral Raymond Mauerman, Coast Guard operations chief, in his discussion of security conditions at the Claremont Shipping Terminal in New Jersey.

The admiral, appearing before a Senate Commerce subcommittee in its probe of waterfront crime, declared he did not believe the U. S. had adequate "port security" against enemy saboteurs.

Mauerman said the Coast Guard, acting on intelligence information from agents overseas, stops suspicious foreign vessels outside American harbors and subjects them to Geiger counter tests for possible atomic explosives concealed aboard.

But the admiral said the method is "not very effective" because of the difficulty of examining cargoes. He added that Geiger counters "might or might not be effective in locating an atomic bomb."

"Oh, God, I wonder what I've done!" he exclaimed.

Grief-stricken, Clifford Taylor, 34, stared despondently at the ground in a pasture near the cabin, about five miles from this mining community near Middlesboro, Ky., and about 30 air miles north of Knoxville.

"I don't want to talk about it," he said today. "It's such a terrible thing." He refused to go near the cabin.

Dead was Edna Marie Taylor, who had walked in her sleep before. She was shot through the heart.

Her mother told this story:

It was about 11 p.m. when Taylor was awakened by a rattling at the front door of the cabin.

"Who's there?" he demanded. There was no answer. Taylor fired through the door, striking the girl.

Grant Taylor, 79-year-old grandfather of the girl, said she staggered about 15 feet away and fell. She was dead when the family arrived.

The grandfather sat at the edge of the road today, whittling on a piece of wood. A pile of shavings rose a foot high between his knees as he spoke:

"She was the best friend I had in the world. She washed my clothes and read to me. I don't know what I'm going to do without her."

The girl had quit school and was helping her parents at home. The Taylors have three other children; James Edward, 8; Geraldine, 7, and Lillie Madeline, 2.

Sheriff Dan L. Chumbley of Claiborne County drove here today to speak with Taylor, but left soon afterward. No charges were filed.

Vanguard Of 149 Yank POWs Freed By Reds Arrives In U. S.

Emotion-Choked GIs Are Greeted By Band And Jets

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., April 29 (AP)—Sped home by pushing tail winds, 35 Americans freed in Korea by the Red arrived today in a huge transport plane—the joyous vanguard of 149 released sick and ailing U. S. prisoners of war.

Some of the emotion-choked service men—26 walking patients, nine on stretchers—got their first glimpse of their homeland in more than two years while a band blared and jet planes buzzed a welcome from overhead.

Sgt. Edward G. Anderson, of Alabama City, Ala., led the walking patients down the ramp after the big C97 Stratocruiser taxied to a stop at the end of a swift 8-hour, 20-minute flight from Hickam Field, Honolulu.

Rushed To Hospital

His face protected by a white mask, Pfc. John M. Jankovits, of Philadelphia, was the first of the nine litter patients carried off to a waiting hospital ambulance.

Knowing the desire of each man to get home as soon as possible, service officials put a hurry-up plan into immediate operation. All 35 were rushed to a hospital on this Air Force base 60 miles northeast of San Francisco for a steak dinner and medical examination.

All but those requiring specialized treatment will be sped either to their homes in the 22 states they represent or to hospitals nearest their homes. Even those needing special treatment will be on their way to a specialized hospital center within 48 hours.

Newsmen Waved Aside

In Korea, Sgt. Odie Lawley, of Medicine Park, Okla., one of today's arrivals, had told how he was captured Nov. 30, 1950 and watched fellow Americans die on a wintry forced march of 13 days. In the Hawaii stopover, the men had related how they had missed most American home-cooked food. But all 35 fell silent today at the dramatic moment when they first touched mainland soil.

By a decision reached before the big plane droned out from over the Pacific across the Golden Gate bridge, the men waved aside newsmen seeking interviews at the plane. It was a moment too treasured for words.

Thousands lined the field and cheered and a military band played "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and "California Here I Come" as Maj. Sherod A Santos gently brought down his precious cargo.

Repatriated POWs Return To Homeland

"Trade Not Aid" Urged By C. Of C.

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce, endorsing a strong "trade, not aid" policy, called on the government today to halt its program of foreign economic assistance.

The chamber declared in favor of the renewal of the trade agreements act, tariff reduction and repeal of "buy American" legislation on grounds that expanded trade can make up Europe's dollar deficit instead of tax dollars.

There is a difference between economic aid and military aid. The latter provides weapons of war for countries allied with the U. S. against communism.

The delegates endorsed a pending resolution by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to restrain the treaty-making power, even though Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith had told them it would "tie the hands" of the President.

Bricker told the chamber later that Smith's statement was "misleading." He said his resolution would in no way hamper the administration in its conduct of foreign policy.

Pollution Control Cut From Budget

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has withdrawn a Truman budget request for $900,000 for water pollution control grants to the states.

Thus for the second straight year the program is faced with a financial shutout.

Last year Congress refused to appropriate any money for grants that are used for research on control of industrial waste poured into lakes and streams.

Asia Is World's Most Dangerous Spot, Dulles Says

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—Secretary of State Dulles told Congress today the Far East is now the world's most dangerous spot and assured the American people that Europe is no longer a "pushover" for Communist aggression.

Dulles, in a radio-TV report on the North Atlantic pact meeting in Paris, said the United States "could not sit idly by" in case of an attack on Western Europe but that the Eisenhower administration believes "prevention is cheaper than cure."

NATO A-Training Planned

The European defense program, he added, will cost less than the amount called for in the Truman budget but will include:

1. Training within NATO on the use of new tactical weapons, including atomic weapons.

2. Fifty new airfields to be completed this year in Europe to provide wider dispersion of aircraft.

3. A network of air bases, pipelines, supply depots and radio communications and radar to include all NATO countries.

The "Big Gap"

Dulles added that the "big gap" in the continental defense program is the lack of German forces but that delays in ratification of the six-power EDC treaty "strains our patience but should not break it."

The secretary was less optimistic about Southeast Asia and the Communist invasion of Laos in closed door testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and said that more arms will be sent to Indochina and the French forces.

U. S. War Casualties Increase To 134,410

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—The Defense Department reported today 623 more American casualties in Korea and showed a decrease of 30 in the number of men officially listed as captured.

The weekly summary, which brought total U. S. casualties since the start of the war to 134,410, indicated that perhaps no more than half of the captives returned by the Communists had been listed officially as prisoners.

The new total is made up of 23,869 dead; 97,658 non-fatally wounded; 11,407 missing, including the known prisoners; and 1,476 men who have "returned to U. S. military control" after being missing for extended periods.

Runaway Truck Derails Train Car

BRAMWELL, W. Va., April 29 (AP)—A truck loaded with heavy mine timbers sped down a precipitous section of U. S. Route 52 here today and smashed into a slowly moving coal train, derailing one car.

The driver, Guy Baker, 33, of Ripplemead, Va., escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Baker said the brakes failed on the downgrade, forcing him to steer the big truck over the curving road for about a quarter of a mile before the crash.

Baker leaped from the cab of his vehicle seconds before the collision, witnesses said, and rolled either through the separated train or under one of the cars. The train was halted by the crash.

Fighting In Korea Drops To Low Ebb

SEOUL, Thursday, April 30 (AP)—Rains pelted the inactive Korean battle front Wednesday as ground fighting dropped to a low ebb and most Allied war planes were grounded.

There was speculation that the opposing forces were taking it easy while truce negotiators at Panmunjom tried to arrange an armistice.

South Korean raiders killed or wounded 38 North Koreans and destroyed six Communist bunkers in two early morning dashes into Red lines on the Far Eastern Front.

The Reds struck back with five jabs at Allied lines —three in the east and two in the west.

10 Die In Crash Of Bomber; Five 'Chute To Safety

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A B29 bomber simulating combat caught fire and crashed six miles south of its home base today, killing 10 fliers.

Five parachuted to safety.

Charles Smith Jr. said he saw the crash from a mile and a half away. He said one engine in the right wing was afire. The big four-engine bomber wobbled crazily, nosed down into a near somersault and plowed into the ground.

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area. Nine bodies were found in and near the debris when rescuers reached the scene. Later a 10th body was found under a tail section.

The B29 was from Randolph Air Force base here. Authorities there withheld names of the dead until next of kin could be notified.

Animal Threat Ended

LONDON, April 29 (AP) — Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton said today the danger that baboons and wild pigs would take over administration of parts of the Gambia protectorate in Africa has been averted.

He told the House of Commons that up to the end of 1952 over 50,000 baboons, 26,000 destructive monkeys and 25,000 wild pigs had been killed in an effort to protect crops.

'Keep Praying' For Captives Of Reds, Says Returned GI

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., April 29 (AP)—"Keep praying for the guys over there still in Communist hands."

A U. S. soldier, arriving home today after more than two years as a prisoner of the Reds in Korea, spoke the words in a noisy, theatrical mass interview with some 60 radio, TV and news correspondents.

With four others, Pfc. Raymond H. Medina, the Bronx, N. Y., sat in a big auditorium of this Air Force base hospital to talk about captivity and freedom amid a scene of wild confusion.

The five were among 35 brought in today by a huge transport plane from Hawaii, the first sick and ailing prisoners to complete their trip from captivity to freedom in their homeland.

They blinked under the glare of floodlights.

They strove to speak into an army of microphones thrust at them.

Medina said "I want to thank God because I know He heard my mother's prayers and that is why I am here today."

He was captured Dec. 9, 1950, while with the 3rd Division, but preferred to think more of the future than the past.

Airman 2C Robert L. Weinbrandt of El Cajon, Calif., a double amputee and a litter patient, told of spending four months with a Chinese military company after bailing out of a B29 shot down by Red fighter planes.

Cpl. Theodore Jackson, of Palestine, Tex., told about the Red captors holding classes on communism.

"Maybe some of the men pretended to believe the stuff to get better treatment but I don't know of anyone who really swallowed the line," said the slightly built Negro.

Pvt. Jose Garcia, of Los Angeles, who is blind in his right eye because of a hand grenade blast, kept nervously looking away while being interviewed—and for a very good reason. He was waiting for a telephone connection so he could talk to his mother.

The fifth man in the mass interview, Alberto Pizarro of Rio Piere, Puerto Rico, talked about his capture Oct. 6, 1952, on "The Hook," an outpost on the Western Front. He was among 200 at a hospital and recalled unhappily "we never got any mail."

Asian Nation Unacceptable As Custodian

Harrison Points Out Communist-Controlled Countries' Proximity

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, April 30 (AP)—The Allies today rejected any Asiatic nation as a neutral to supervise Communist prisoners of war who do not want to return to Red rule.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. said no Asiatic nation would be acceptable because all Asian countries "are located very close to countries dominated by Communists and might therefore be subjected to Communist military, economic or political influence."

The senior Allied negotiator made his position clear during a 51-minute truce session with the Communists in the conference hut. Both sides agreed to meet again tomorrow at 11 a. m.

After four days of maneuvering, three of them without progress, the Allied and Communist delegations appeared to be reaching the hard bargaining stage in their efforts to write an armistice agreement.

Reds Ease Time Demand

In Wednesday's 64-minute meeting, the Communists agreed to ease their demands for a six-month questioning period in a foreign neutral country of all prisoners refusing to return home voluntarily.

The U. N. Command said 60 days was long enough to determine the attitude of the prisoners. The Allies want the prisoners left in Korea pending settlement of their future.

In Tokyo, a high Allied scource suggested a possible compromise on this point: Leave the North Korean prisoners on the peninsula but send the Chinese to a neutral nation.

President Syngman Rhee of South Korea made virtually the same suggestion in Seoul Wednesday. He told a news conference he would insist on Koreans remaining in their own country, but was agreeable to removal of the Chinese prisoners.

Reds Reject Switzerland

Another point at issue was the selection of the neutral nation to take custody of the prisoners refusing repatriation.

The Allies proposed Switzerland but the Communists rejected that nomination.

On Wednesday the chief Communist negotiator, Korean Gen. Nam Il, said the Reds favored an Asiatic country as neutral custodian.

This provoked speculation that India had been approached by Red China and North Korea.

Ships Checked For Atom Bomb

WASHINGTON, April 20 (INS)—Congress was informed today that the U. S. Coast Guard is checking "suspicious" foreign vessels with Geiger counters but that the device "might not be effective in locating an atomic bomb."

The testimony came from Rear Admiral Raymond Mauerman, Coast Guard operations chief, in his discussion of security conditions at the Claremont Shipping Terminal in New Jersey.

The admiral, appearing before a Senate Commerce subcommittee in its probe of waterfront crime, declared he did not believe the U. S. had adequate "port security" against enemy saboteurs.

Mauerman said the Coast Guard, acting on intelligence information from agents overseas, stops suspicious foreign vessels outside American harbors and subjects them to Geiger counter tests for possible atomic explosives concealed aboard.

But the admiral said the method is "not very effective" because of the difficulty of examining cargoes. He added that Geiger counters "might or might not be effective in locating an atomic bomb."

Dixie Storm Leaves At Least 11 Dead

By The Associated Press

A vicious spring storm that hit Texas with death-dealing twisters, cloudbursts and lightning, moved eastward across Louisiana and Mississippi Wednesday.

The storm left at least 11 dead, more than a dozen injured and caused heavy property damage in its eastward sweep.

Stands Jammed Before Collapse, Judge Is Told

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP) — A woman said today spectators were jammed so close together at the Sonja Henie ice show here last year she mistakenly shoved her ticket stub into the pocket of a man next to her.

Miss Edith L. Bower told a jury that when she found her hand in the man's pocket "we laughed and struck up a conversation."

"Then," said Miss Bower, "there was a crashing noise and I heard the man next to me say, 'Here we go'. . . and down we went!"

Miss Bower, one of about 400 persons seeking a total of five million dollars in damages for the bleacher collapse, testified at the third day of a trial before Judge John T. Tucker.

The trial is to determine liability for the accident. Miss Henie claims it was the fault of the contractor who put up the seats. Attorneys for contractor Edwin P. Coronati contend that ushers hired by Miss Henie let spectators take their seats before the construction work was finished.

An attorney for the plaintiffs in the consolidated test case has claimed that "greed for money and more seats to supply more money" resulted in hurried erection of the bleacher section that collapsed.

Another plaintiff, Mrs. Janet Harryman, appeared in court wearing a metal neck support. She said the seats were so close together she and her girl friends were worried about tearing their stockings on the row in front of them.

Mrs. Dorothy K. Jahn said she and some friends took their seats in the 28th row and heard hammering underneath them "almost to the time of the accident."

Suddenly, said Mrs. Jahn, she felt herself falling backward and heard a deafening roar. She said she was knocked unconscious.

Ex-Rep. Bolton Freed On Weapons Charge

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP) — A charge of illegal gun-carrying has been dismissed against William P. Bolton, former Maryland Second District congressman, it was disclosed today.

The charge was set aside after Magistrate John A. Janetzke was told Bolton had proper authority through the Baltimore County Sheriff's office to carry the .32 caliber revolver.

The gun was found in the glove compartment of Bolton's car on the Pulaski Highway last week when the former congressman, now Baltimore County's Civil Defense Director, was stopped by Patrolman Warren C. Wells for questioning about a minor traffic violation.

Stole Blueprints

THAD MASON, of Wallington, N.J., tells the Senate Internal Security subcommittee in Washington that he stole blueprints from the Diesel engine division of General Motors during World War II for transmission to Moscow. A former Communist, Mason said he fooled guards by rolling the prints in a newspaper he pretended to read during lunch hour. (International)

AMA President Hits U. N. Agency

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP)—The head of the American Medical Association charged today international groups are trying to force socialized medicine on America "via the convention and treaty route."

Dr. Louis H. Bauer cited the International Labor Organization—an affiliated agency of the United Nations—as one of the groups he had in mind.

His remarks were made at an annual meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty—state medical association. Earlier, the group elected Dr. Bender B. Kniesley, general practitioner of Hagerstown, as its president for 1954.

Dr. Bauer said he felt there was no longer any "immediate danger" of socialized medicine being voted in the United States and added: "The danger now is from the international level."

He urged Maryland doctors to support the World Medical Association, an organization formed by medical associations in 43 nations. Bauer called the WMA "the only voice the profession has before other international bodies dealing with health and medicine."

Big "Stop" Sign Traffic Hazard

SALISBURY, Md., April 29 (AP)—You can add traffic signs to your list of unusual traffic hazards.

That's th way Mayor Rollie W. Hastings saw it today in announcing a "stop" sign would be removed from a downtown intersection.

He made the decisions after complaints that the sign is so big motorists can't see what's coming from one side of the intersection.

Boat Sinks; 48 Missing

BOGOTA, April 29 (INS) — A small Colombian police boat with 65 persons aboard sank in the Bay of Cupica today, Agence France Presse reported 17 passengers were rescued and search is continuing for additional survivors.

Robber Receives 260-Year Term

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP)—Circuit Judge Joseph L. Carter today imposed a 260-year prison sentence on one holdup man and a 100-year sentence on another.

The judge said his purpose was to "take them out of the community for the rest of their lives."

He sentenced William Chapman, 21-year-old Negro, to 20-year terms for each of 13 robberies—a total of 260 years—and specified the terms are to run consecutively.

He imposed 20-year terms against Ernest Robinson, Jr., 23-year-old Negro, in five cases.

Judges in many instances impose "concurrent" sentences in "concurrent" sentences in multiple offenses—a day in prison counts against all of them. But Chapman and Robinson won't get any credit on their second sentences until they have finished their first, etc.

The state's penal regulations provide a prisoner is not eligible for parole until he has finished a third of his sentence. An especially well behaved life term prisoner becomes eligible for parole after 15 years.

Both Chapman and Robinson pleaded guilty.

Brewery Horses Have Coronation Rehearsal

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Two of London's strongest brewery wagon horses, by name Sovereign and Royal, had their Coronation rehearsal today.

Their job will be to pull the ornate coach of the speaker of the House of Commons, W. S. Morrison, to Westminster Abbey on the day of Queen Elizabeth's crowning—and for Sovereign and Royal there will be nothing to it. Though the speaker's state coach weighs 2½ tons, the two battle-gray geldings are accustomed to delivering up to four tons of beer at a single haul.

But a rehearsal was considered necessary. It is desirable for horses pulling Coronation coaches to get the feel of the vehicles and one of the objects of several starts and stops today was to implant in the minds of Sovereign and Royal the notion that the west doors of the abbey are a new saloon on their daily route.

Talented animals, the tests indicated they will deliver the speaker June 2 just as efficiently as they regularly deliver the beer.

The Middle Ground

Confusion and obfuscation were deliberate Communist techniques under Stalin, who, in this as in other respects, rewrote and "improved" the dicta of his masters, Marx and Lenin. Whatever its purposes, present Soviet leadership is discovering that the free world learned Stalin's methods all too well.

Unless their perspective is altogether blunted from disuse, the present rulers of the Kremlin must be deriving a certain sour enlightenment from the skepticism of the Western countries regarding the Russian drive for peace. Outside of the Soviet Union and its satellite states there is universal distrust of Moscow.

Nothing that the Soviet Union proposes is accepted at its face value. No confidence is placed in Russia's declarations of peaceful purposes. No faith is reposed in the words of Malenkov. No Western statesman is willing to put the defense of his land at hazard in reliance upon Soviet promises.

Perhaps the Communists regard that as an achievement. If so, it is one that has caught up with them, now that their ostensible motive is peaceful. Western distrust is profound. Otherwise American leadership, through the voices of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, would not be demanding that the Soviet prove its good faith with deeds rather than with words.

That is not the normal method of diplomatic procedure. In the normal course, an international negotiation precedes action. The action emerges from an agreement. But the whole relationship of the Western world with the Soviet Union is strewn with broken agreements. Negotiation has been futile.

But there is still the middle ground of an honorable peace, which the United States and its associates are willing to offer, if the Soviet Union and its satellites are prepared to prove their faith with deeds, not words.

Punishment For Atrocities

It is going to be difficult, if not impossible, to get anybody punished for the atrocities committed against American and North Koreans taken prisoner in the Korean War. True, many of the Germans and Japanese responsible for atrocities in World War II were hanged or imprisoned, but Germany and Japan had been completely defeated and had surrendered unconditionally. So the victors in World War II were in a position to institute war guilt trials.

In the Korean War, however, nobody expects the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists to surrender unconditionally. Even if they should be defeated ultimately instead of agreeing now to a peace without victory, they will hardly agree to trial and punishment by outsiders of those responsible for atrocities.

One piece of cruel irony in the situation is that many legal authorities, including Senator Taft, objected to the World War II war guilt trials just because these were conducted by war victors against war vanquished. The winners of a war, it was insisted, could not be expected to hand out impartial justice to the losers.

Half a century ago, the Hague conventions of 1899 and 1907 specified that war prisoners must be treated "humanely." The Geneva convention of 1929 was more specific; the Soviet Union was not a signatory.

A still more elaborate convention on war prisoners was signed at Geneva in 1949. The United States, which signed but failed to ratify, promised to observe its provisions, and so, in 1950, did North Korea. Communist China in July 1952 declared its intention to adhere to the 1949 convention.

Presents Credentials

Clair Boothe Luce presented her credentials as U. S. ambassador to Italy on Tuesday. Mrs. Luce, although not this country's first woman ambassador (Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Minnesota was named ambassador to Denmark in 1949) is the first to so important a state as Italy, one of the great powers until after its defeat in World War II.

Mrs. Luce has had an eminent career not only in politics, but also as dramatist, essayist, lecturer. As such she follows tradition as our top representative in Rome. The notable novelist Thomas Nelson Page was appointed ambassador to Italy in 1915, to be succeeded in 1920 by the outstanding magazine editor Robert Underwood Johnson, who was in turn succeeded in 1921 by Richard Washburn Child, well-known fiction writer and journalist.

The United States sent no head of a diplomatic mission to Italy for some years after Italy became unified, in 1870-71, by dint of annexing states in central Italy from the Vatican. In 1882, finally, President Arthur chose William Waldorf Astor as minister to Rome. Astor afterwards wrote several novels, became a British subject, was raised to the peerage, published newspapers in London.

In later years the ambassadorship at Rome has gone to professional diplomats—Henry P. Fletcher in 1924, John W. Garrett in 1929, Breckenridge Long in 1933, William Phillips in 1936, Alexander C. Kirk in 1944, James C. Dunn in 1946. None of these predecessors of the "gentlewoman from Connecticut," as Mrs. Luce was called while in the House in 1943-1947, brought to the post at Rome more varied qualifications than she brings.

On Child Health Day

As the nation celebrates Child Health Day on Friday, the average American child of today stands a much better chance of living to a ripe old age than did its parents when they were children. The child born today can be expected, other things being equal, to come close to the Biblical three-score-and-ten; the child born half a century ago could not be expected to reach 50.

This marked advance in life expectancy has come about primarily because infectious diseases, once the scourge of the young, have been brought largely under control. Today the leading cause of death among children, as it is among adults, is heart disease.

This is usually a congenital condition among children under five, whereas after that age it is usually a valvular disease or, among the older persons, a disease of the arteries. The second most prevalent cause of death among school-age children is acute rheumatic fever.

Mental rather than physical bad health goes along with poverty, if the Selective Service findings are an adequate guide. States with high per capita incomes had a low rate of mental rejections but a high rate of rejection on physical grounds, whereas the Southern states, above the national average on mental rejections, were below average on physical ones.

How To Keep Well

Psoriasis: Theories And Remedies

Psoriasis is one of the oldest of our common skin diseases. It also is one of the most puzzling and, despite the fact that mankind has been forced to contend with the malady for many centuries, the cause has escaped detection and a good remedy still is lacking.

The condition is more unsightly than serious. It usually begins as a red, pea sized lesion, slightly elevated and flattened on the upper surface. In time, the center part becomes covered with dry, shiny, silvery scales that grow thicker, with one layer heaped upon another. When the upper crust is pulled or scraped off, it leaves a bright red surface with one or two tiny bleeding points, a characteristic feature of psoriasis.

Some individuals have one such area which has a tendency to come and go; others have patches of unusual shapes and sizes scattered throughout the body. Favored sites are the elbows and knees with the lower back, scalp, and nails next in order. This pattern is not always followed. There are several varieties of psoriasis and some are so bizarre even the experts have difficulty recognizing them. The pustular form, for example, is partial to the palms and soles and consists of tiny, pimple-like eruptions. When psoriasis is confined to the nails it is not easy to distinguish from ringworm and the same can be said when the scalp is invaded.

The cause is not known but, as with most common ailments, there are theories galore. Those interested in diet blame disturbances in metabolism of both fat and protein; other incriminate the glandular system or the nerves. A few have concluded from their research that a vitamin deficiency is responsible, or invasion of the skin by parasites or bacteria. Every one is entitled to his opinion but to my knowledge none of these theories explains all cases.

A prominent dermatologist writes of a man who had a flareup of his psoriasis on being notified that his son was missing in action over enemy lines. A few days later, when told his son was safe, the outbreak healed within a short time. Any one who has seen several such patients might conclude that the emotional system plays a major role yet many develop the disease for no apparent reason.

Remedies are even more numerous than theories on the cause. Treatments consist of various ointments and lotions, vitamins, X-rays, special baths, hormones, and sunlight. ACTH and cortisone control the lesions but the effect is temporary; one of my colleagues has used an ointment containing these hormones with considerable success. But to date the most popular remedy is the Goeckerman treatment in which crude coal tar ointment is applied thoroughly before going to bed at night. The next day all but a thin film of the ointment is removed and the affected area is exposed to ultraviolet rays.

TOMORROW: Liver failure through cirrhosis.

COLOR BLIND

Mrs. Y. writes: My 20-year-old son is color blind. He is at the head of his class so it can't be stupidity. Can this defect be helped in any way?

REPLY

Many schemes have been tried but all have failed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on color vision.

X-RAY WILL SHOW

Mrs. A. L. writes: I swallowed a straight pin and have been watching for it for 15 days. What should I do?

REPLY

If the pin still is in the intestinal tract it will show up under X-ray.

MEANDERING TISSUE

G. W. writes: Does removal of the pelvic organs get rid of endometriosis permanently?

REPLY

The endometrial tissue remains active in the abdominal cavity so long as the ovaries remain. It is for this reason that the ovaries are taken out, along with the other pelvic organs, in the more advanced stages of endometriosis.

BROKEN VESSEL

C. P. writes, Do young people ever have a blood vessel in the brain break?

REPLY

Yes, but should this mishap occur it usually results from an inherent weakness in the wall of the blood vessel (aneurysm). There is no way of diagnosing this condition in advance and it is just a matter of time before trouble ensues. When a brain vessel ruptures symptoms are similar to those after stroke and should the individual survive it often is possible to correct the condition surgically. Strokes of this type should not be confused with those resulting from high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries.

Belgian Gift-Elephant Poses Problem For GOP; Summerfield's Dining Room Squeezes Civil Servants Out; President Visits With Hagen Brothers

WASHINGTON—Republicans are faced with a serious challenge to the symbol of the Grand Old Party—the elephant.

A prize African elephant has been given to the National Zoo in the nation's capital by the government of Belgium, but thanks to the current economy wave, the Republican administration hasn't got the money to bring the elephant to the United States.

It hasn't got the money even though the Belgian government will transport this symbol of the GOP in a Sabena airline plane free.

Gift of the elephant was arranged by Mrs. Molly Thayer, associate director of the American Forum of the Air, through the Belgian ambassador, Robert Silvercruys. And the elephant is now waiting patiently in the Belgian Congo. She is a female, seven years old, named "Maybe"—though some suggested she might be rechristened "Mamie."

Dr. William Mann, director of the National Zoo, has been scratching his head trying to figure a way to bring Maybe to Washington, since the zoo completely lacks an African elephant. Indian elephants, much easier to train, are plentiful in the United States, but African elephants are rare.

Dr. Mann, himself a strong Taft Republican, figured that things would be easy for him once his party got into power. But he now finds the zoo budget being cut back until he can hardly afford horse meat for the lions or fish for his penguins.

Maybe's Mahout

He has been able to scrape up the cost of a crate to house Maybe for her trans-Atlantic flight. This has to be a strong crate, since the Sabena airline doesn't want a young elephant kicking the sides out of the plane in midair.

Besides the crate, however, Dr. Mann has to scrape up the cost of bringing Maybe's mahout along. This is important; for the Belgians report that Maybe is a timid young lady and could not possibly cross the Atlantic without the trainer who has been her companion for six of her seven years.

Dr. Mann figures it will cost $1,000 to bring the mahout to the United States and send him back. Furthermore he has to buy the mahout some clothes. It would not be quite proper for him to arrive in the nation's capital clad in a jungle loin cloth.

So, for lack of a paltry $1,200, or at the most $1,500, the symbol of the Republican party stomps impatiently in Leopoldville, waiting for some generous Republican to clothe her mahout and arrange her debut in the capital of the United States.

Maybe if the Republicans can't raise this money some of the Democrats ought to dig down in their jeans and help out. Or maybe the school children of Washington could contribute five cents each to bring "Maybe" over here.

These are the alternatives considered by the harassed Dr. Mann, who, Republican though he is, can't help thinking of those good old Democratic days when Secretary of the Interior Ickes nonchalantly phoned to ask if he would like to have $870,000 to build a new birdhouse.

Private Dining Room

In addition to economizing on the zoo, Postmaster General Summerfield, ex-GOP national chairman, has been making speeches on economy. What he hasn't mentioned in his speeches however is that he has ordered a suite of offices remodeled to make a private dining room for himself.

What the postmaster general did was to kick government workers out of four offices to make room for a lush, private dining room.

The four roms—1409, 1411, 1413 and 1415—had been used by employes of the Federal Communications Commission. They have just been handed orders to vacate so their office space can be "converted into a private dining room for the postmaster general."

NOTE: Another cabinet officer who doesn't believe that economy begins at home is Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who has cut everyone else's share of the budget but has set aside approximately $38,000 for government planes to fly him around the country.

Four Hagen Brothers

President Eisenhower, who has four brothers himself, got a big kick out of meeting the four brothers of GOP Congressman Harold Hagen of Minnesota the other day, particularly when he learned that one brother had played a strategic role in the Normandy invasion.

Norman Hagen, an international-known meteorologist, was one of the U. S. experts who helped forecast the weather one day before D-Day. Their prediction that conditions would be satisfactory was a tough one to make, because the weather on June 5, 1944, 24 hours before, was stormy.

"It was raining and the wind seemed strong enough to blow a house down," recalled Ike as he met the Hagen brothers.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Socialism On The March

When the British labor party socialized about 20 per cent of the British economy, many in the United States were outraged. But they say nothing about the socialization of about 25 per cent of the American power industry on the theoretical basis that it would improve our rivers. If, for instance, TVA were operated on a business basis, it would have to repay the Treasury for the investment of the United States in this enterprise.

The task force of the Hoover Commission calls attention, in its report on the TVA, to this part of the law establishing this enterprise which reads:

". . . in order, as soon as practicable, to make the power projets self-supporting and self-liquidating, the surplus power shall be sold at rates which, in the opinion of the board, when applied to the normal capacity of the authority's power facilities, will produce gross revenues in excess of the cost of production of said power . . ."

The total amount repaid by TVA to June 30, 1952, was approximaitely $40,000,000. The task force recommended a method of calculation, set up on a basis of amortizing the total investment in 50 years with interest at three per cent per annum. Such a calculation, brought up to June 30, 1952, would show that TVA should have repaid the Treasury the amount of $200,000,000.

It would be interesting to know exactly on what basis TVA works out a loss of approximately $160,000,000 to the Treasury and to the American taxpayer. What happens to that money? The difficulty with reading government figures is that ordinary accounting methods are not used and it takes great skill to discover where the money is hidden.

In this connection, it is important to note that in his campaign speech at Little Rock, Ark., on September 3, 1952, General Eisenhower said:

"Finally, we can have a completely honest government . . . a government that will report to the American people on every single item of responsibility concerning its stewardship."

Such a report on the entire TVA transaction is needed. It might be done with such simplicity as Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey employed in his statement of our legacy.

At Boise, Idaho, General Eisenhower said:

"Now, we have had for a long time a government that applies the philosophy of the left to government. The government will build the power dams, the government will tell you how to distribute your power, the government will do this and that. The government does everything but come in and wash the dishes for the housewife."

This is not unlike the speech ex-President Hoover delivered at the Case Institute of Technology on "Federal Socialization of Electric Power," in which he said:

"Free men can no more permit private economic power without checks and balances than governmental power without checks and balances."

Further, he said:

". . . The first step toward socialization was taken when the federal government undertook itself to generate and distribute this electric power from multiple-purpose dams. And now the federal government has taken further socialistic leaps by building steam hydro plants solely for the generation of electric power.'

To this, Senator Hubert H. Humphy said:

"A former President of the United States says, 'Let us get rid of the power dams and all the great public resources.' "

Of course, Mr. Hoover never said anything of the sort. The ex-President only advocated what he always believed, that the federal government make some money out of these plants by selling the power at a fair rate and by leasing government-owned plants to private enterprise, or to municipalities or to state governments or to authorities, like the New York Port Authority, which does a very good job in its own sphere of limited activity. In a word, the ex-President feels that we can no longer afford the luxury of losing money on enterprises on which we can make money.

Actually what is happening is that the federal government is in competition with private enterprise; the federal plants do not make a reasonable return and pay no taxes; the private plants will ultimately find it impossible to compete with tax-free government plants and will go out of business.

What is required is a non-partisan, practical, business-like approach to this problem in the best interest of the United States. If the government is in business, it ought to be for a profit.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Every administration is entitled to a chance to deal with new problems in its own way—provided it does not reject out of hand pointed lessons of experience.

The new loyalty and security program announced by the Eisenhower administration is drastic in some respects and lenient in others. About the only way the procedures will be finally evaluated will be by tests in individual cases as they arise.

Certainly nobody who examines the long, technical executive order issued by the President—prepared after many weeks of soul-searching study by his subordinates in the Department of Justice and the Civil Service Commission—will say that it is soft so far as Communists in government are concerned. If anything, it is a bit tough on the individual employe, who can in a case of abuse be thrown out of his job because he doesn't happen to play up to the whims of his department or agency head. He will have no right of formal review above the department or agency in which he has been employed.

No Review Board

There is not to be a loyalty review board now, as there was under the Truman administration. Hence there will be no regular system of post-audit of individual cases of suspected disloyalty where a department or agency has "cleared" an employe of charges. The reason given for abandoning the Loyalty Review Board is that there was no provision of law to permit its functioning. But the Loyalty Review Board was always an "advisory" board and final responsibility rested with the department or agency head.

In no case under the Truman administration was the Loyalty Review Board reversed by a department or agency head. The only instance occurred in the Vincent case under the present administration, when Secretary of State Dulles reversed the Loyalty Review Board, saying he had the legal right to do so which was, of course, correct. It isn't necessary for such a review board to have power to dismiss ineligibles, but under the last administration it was an unwritten law that the President would stand back of the Loyalty Review Board's recommendation. Under the present administration the plan from the beginning has been to alter the whole setup and eliminate the review-board system. This now has been embodied in the executive order.

There are some administration officials who point out that the Civil Service Commission, under the new executive order, may create advisory boards or committees to make recommendations as to the effectiveness of the procedures and that provision is made for study of defects. Experience may show that it is desirable also to create some sort of review system inside the Civil Service Commission, so that a technical staff may review and take action on the proceedings in any case before the departments or agencies where security or loyalty cases may have been considered.

There now is a disposition in the new setup to avoid the word "loyalty" altogether and make dismissals entirely on a "security" basis, with the elements of "unsuitability" strongly imbedded in the meaning of the word "security." For it is recognized that any immoral or dishonest person or individual of loose habits generally might become the victim of pressure or blackmail by agents of foreign governments. So "security" covers a multitude of sins.

Deserves Fair Trial

In general, the new program deserves a fair trial. Its weaknesses will become apparent as experience increases. Since the motivation of the present administration is to expose or remove bad security risks and not to conceal or try to defend them, as some officials in the State Department felt it was their duty to do under the last administration, there is every reason to believe that, if defects in the procedures arise, they will soon be corrected.

The one big weakness — the unfamiliarity of persons chosen to act as security boards in 60 different agencies with the ways and techniques of Communists and fellow travelers—cannot be corrected until the new administration gets its fingers burned by specific cases. For the Communist will lie about his connections, he will vilify his critics, he will cry out loudly about constitutional rights and how they are violated under McCarthyism and "witch hunts," and yet at the same time he will be a secret member of a Communist organization confident that he will not be caught. Or he will refuse to do his duty as a citizen and reveal his knowledge of criminal conspiracies even when he himself may not have been a part of such conspiracies.

It will not be easy to educate all the newcomers on the security boards to the tricks of the Communists—but the Eisenhower administration is going to try to erect as many safeguards as possible against gullibility or deception. A sincere purpose is being manifested by those who have the responsibility at the Department of Justice and the Civil Service Commission to make the new program accomplish the desired end—to drive Communists and their auxiliaries out of government.

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

Admiral Arthur Radford looks like a better and better bet to replace Gen. Omar Bradley as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The decision will presumably be made as soon as Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson can reach agreement with President Eisenhower. The question is whether Wilson's wishes or Eisenhower's doubts will finally prevail.

Wilson has wanted Radford for chairman of the Joint Chiefs ever since the President's pre-inauguration trip to Korea. When the Eisenhower party was on its way back, Radford met them at Pearl Harbor. He so much impressed and charmed Wilson that Wilson proposed him for the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs then and there, without further ado.

According to undoubted reports, the President answered that Admiral Radford was one of the two or three ablest senior officers in American uniform, fully qualified in every way to head the Joint Chiefs. But he added that Wilson had better not name Radford to the chairmanship until he had made quite sure that Radford's first loyalty would be to the secretary of Defense, instead of to the Navy.

Admiral Radford has since made a long visit to Washington, which seems, if anything, to have increased Secretary Wilson's enthusiasm for him. Wilson is one of those who "wants what they want when they want it." He wanted the famous radio entertainer, Arthur Godfrey, for a Defense Department number of the President's special commission on psychological warfare. When he encountered opposition, he carried his fight for Godfrey to the length of refusing to name anyone else for a considerable time. In the infinitely more important case of Radford, he is said to be equally determined.

Gruenther A Compromise

The President, meanwhile, has always opposed the extreme naval viewpoint which Admiral Radford has always stood for hitherto. Since the admiral is a man who fights for his view to the last ditch, it can be seen why the President has threatened to approve Secretary Wilson's proposal. The Air Force, where Admiral Radford's stand on the B-36 is only too well remembered, is also moving heaven and earth to block his nomination.

If Admiral Radford is not named, other possibilities are reported to be Gen. Alfred Gruenther, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg and Gen. Carl Spaatz. Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott has claimed the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs for the Air branch, and has taken the position that Gen. Spaatz should be called back from retirement if Gen. Vandenberg is not to be promoted. The argument that the chairmanship should rotate, which the Air Force presses, would stand in the way of the appointment of Gen. Gruenther. But he is favored by his closeness to the President, and his personal acceptability to almost everyone as a compromise choice.

Nonetheless, Admiral Radford is the best bet because of the strength and determination of Secretary Wilson's support. It must be added that the appointment, if it goes through, can be counted on to influence Ameircan policy in all sorts of significant ways.

In the first place, Secretary Wilson is a man of strong likes and dislikes whose personal opinions are seldom subject to change except by the very small number of persons he fully trusts and approves of. The opinions that he brought to Washington, about the right relationship between the defense effort and the budget, do not appear to have been shaken very much by anyone now on duty in the Pentagon. But Admiral Radford can be counted on to plead the cause of adequate national defense with great force, and he can also be counted on to impress Secretary Wilson.

Favors A Show-Down

Then too, the admiral belongs to the school of American officers who have little or no patience with mere containment in the contest of the cold war. He has strongly advocated a blockade of Communist China, as part of a larger program to make the Peking government regret its intervention in Korea. He has shown a strong preference, in many other ways, for bringing the cold war contest to a rapid and complete showdown.

In this respect, Radford could hardly differ more widely from the present Joint Chiefs, whose caution is illustrated by their intensely hostile reception of the Radford blockade plan and Gen. James Van Fleet's comparable plan for a ground offensive on the Korean peninsula. In fact, this new quality and outlook Radford would bring to the Joint Chiefs would probably prove far more important, in the long run, than his loyalty to the Navy and his suspicion of the Strategic Air Command.

In addition, Radford has one of the most compelling personalities and one of the best intellectual equipments of any man in American public life. Bringing such a man, with such a temperament, into a place of such great power and influence as the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs, is almost certain to mark a major turning point, whether or no this is the intention.

The Middle Ground

Confusion and obfuscation were deliberate Communist techniques under Stalin, who, in this as in other respects, rewrote and "improved" the dicta of his masters, Marx and Lenin. Whatever its purposes, present Soviet leadership is discovering that the free world learned Stalin's methods all too well.

Unless their perspective is altogether blunted from disuse, the present rulers of the Kremlin must be deriving a certain sour enlightenment from the skepticism of the Western countries regarding the Russian drive for peace. Outside of the Soviet Union and its satellite states there is universal distrust of Moscow.

Nothing that the Soviet Union proposes is accepted at its face value. No confidence is placed in Russia's declarations of peaceful purposes. No faith is reposed in the words of Malenkov. No Western statesman is willing to put the defense of his land at hazard in reliance upon Soviet promises.

Perhaps the Communists regard that as an achievement. If so, it is one that has caught up with them, now that their ostensible motive is peaceful. Western distrust is profound. Otherwise American leadership, through the voices of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, would not be demanding that the Soviet prove its good faith with deeds rather than with words.

That is not the normal method of diplomatic procedure. In the normal course, an international negotiation precedes action. The action emerges from an agreement. But the whole relationship of the Western world with the Soviet Union is strewn with broken agreements. Negotiation has been futile.

But there is still the middle ground of an honorable peace, which the United States and its associates are willing to offer, if the Soviet Union and its satellites are prepared to prove their faith with deeds, not words.

Punishment For Atrocities

It is going to be difficult, if not impossible, to get anybody punished for the atrocities committed against American and North Koreans taken prisoner in the Korean War. True, many of the Germans and Japanese responsible for atrocities in World War II were hanged or imprisoned, but Germany and Japan had been completely defeated and had surrendered unconditionally. So the victors in World War II were in a position to institute war guilt trials.

In the Korean War, however, nobody expects the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists to surrender unconditionally. Even if they should be defeated ultimately instead of agreeing now to a peace without victory, they will hardly agree to trial and punishment by outsiders of those responsible for atrocities.

One piece of cruel irony in the situation is that many legal authorities, including Senator Taft, objected to the World War II war guilt trials just because these were conducted by war victors against war vanquished. The winners of a war, it was insisted, could not be expected to hand out impartial justice to the losers.

Half a century ago, the Hague conventions of 1899 and 1907 specified that war prisoners must be treated "humanely." The Geneva convention of 1929 was more specific; the Soviet Union was not a signatory.

A still more elaborate convention on war prisoners was signed at Geneva in 1949. The United States, which signed but failed to ratify, promised to observe its provisions, and so, in 1950, did North Korea. Communist China in July 1952 declared its intention to adhere to the 1949 convention.

Presents Credentials

Clair Boothe Luce presented her credentials as U. S. ambassador to Italy on Tuesday. Mrs. Luce, although not this country's first woman ambassador (Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Minnesota was named ambassador to Denmark in 1949) is the first to so important a state as Italy, one of the great powers until after its defeat in World War II.

Mrs. Luce has had an eminent career not only in politics, but also as dramatist, essayist, lecturer. As such she follows tradition as our top representative in Rome. The notable novelist Thomas Nelson Page was appointed ambassador to Italy in 1915, to be succeeded in 1920 by the outstanding magazine editor Robert Underwood Johnson, who was in turn succeeded in 1921 by Richard Washburn Child, well-known fiction writer and journalist.

The United States sent no head of a diplomatic mission to Italy for some years after Italy became unified, in 1870-71, by dint of annexing states in central Italy from the Vatican. In 1882, finally, President Arthur chose William Waldorf Astor as minister to Rome. Astor afterwards wrote several novels, became a British subject, was raised to the peerage, published newspapers in London.

In later years the ambassadorship at Rome has gone to professional diplomats—Henry P. Fletcher in 1924, John W. Garrett in 1929, Breckenridge Long in 1933, William Phillips in 1936, Alexander C. Kirk in 1944, James C. Dunn in 1946. None of these predecessors of the "gentlewoman from Connecticut," as Mrs. Luce was called while in the House in 1943-1947, brought to the post at Rome more varied qualifications than she brings.

On Child Health Day

As the nation celebrates Child Health Day on Friday, the average American child of today stands a much better chance of living to a ripe old age than did its parents when they were children. The child born today can be expected, other things being equal, to come close to the Biblical three-score-and-ten; the child born half a century ago could not be expected to reach 50.

This marked advance in life expectancy has come about primarily because infectious diseases, once the scourge of the young, have been brought largely under control. Today the leading cause of death among children, as it is among adults, is heart disease.

This is usually a congenital condition among children under five, whereas after that age it is usually a valvular disease or, among the older persons, a disease of the arteries. The second most prevalent cause of death among school-age children is acute rheumatic fever.

Mental rather than physical bad health goes along with poverty, if the Selective Service findings are an adequate guide. States with high per capita incomes had a low rate of mental rejections but a high rate of rejection on physical grounds, whereas the Southern states, above the national average on mental rejections, were below average on physical ones.

How To Keep Well

Psoriasis: Theories And Remedies

Psoriasis is one of the oldest of our common skin diseases. It also is one of the most puzzling and, despite the fact that mankind has been forced to contend with the malady for many centuries, the cause has escaped detection and a good remedy still is lacking.

The condition is more unsightly than serious. It usually begins as a red, pea sized lesion, slightly elevated and flattened on the upper surface. In time, the center part becomes covered with dry, shiny, silvery scales that grow thicker, with one layer heaped upon another. When the upper crust is pulled or scraped off, it leaves a bright red surface with one or two tiny bleeding points, a characteristic feature of psoriasis.

Some individuals have one such area which has a tendency to come and go; others have patches of unusual shapes and sizes scattered throughout the body. Favored sites are the elbows and knees with the lower back, scalp, and nails next in order. This pattern is not always followed. There are several varieties of psoriasis and some are so bizarre even the experts have difficulty recognizing them. The pustular form, for example, is partial to the palms and soles and consists of tiny, pimple-like eruptions. When psoriasis is confined to the nails it is not easy to distinguish from ringworm and the same can be said when the scalp is invaded.

The cause is not known but, as with most common ailments, there are theories galore. Those interested in diet blame disturbances in metabolism of both fat and protein; other incriminate the glandular system or the nerves. A few have concluded from their research that a vitamin deficiency is responsible, or invasion of the skin by parasites or bacteria. Every one is entitled to his opinion but to my knowledge none of these theories explains all cases.

A prominent dermatologist writes of a man who had a flareup of his psoriasis on being notified that his son was missing in action over enemy lines. A few days later, when told his son was safe, the outbreak healed within a short time. Any one who has seen several such patients might conclude that the emotional system plays a major role yet many develop the disease for no apparent reason.

Remedies are even more numerous than theories on the cause. Treatments consist of various ointments and lotions, vitamins, X-rays, special baths, hormones, and sunlight. ACTH and cortisone control the lesions but the effect is temporary; one of my colleagues has used an ointment containing these hormones with considerable success. But to date the most popular remedy is the Goeckerman treatment in which crude coal tar ointment is applied thoroughly before going to bed at night. The next day all but a thin film of the ointment is removed and the affected area is exposed to ultraviolet rays.

TOMORROW: Liver failure through cirrhosis.

COLOR BLIND

Mrs. Y. writes: My 20-year-old son is color blind. He is at the head of his class so it can't be stupidity. Can this defect be helped in any way?

REPLY

Many schemes have been tried but all have failed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on color vision.

X-RAY WILL SHOW

Mrs. A. L. writes: I swallowed a straight pin and have been watching for it for 15 days. What should I do?

REPLY

If the pin still is in the intestinal tract it will show up under X-ray.

MEANDERING TISSUE

G. W. writes: Does removal of the pelvic organs get rid of endometriosis permanently?

REPLY

The endometrial tissue remains active in the abdominal cavity so long as the ovaries remain. It is for this reason that the ovaries are taken out, along with the other pelvic organs, in the more advanced stages of endometriosis.

BROKEN VESSEL

C. P. writes, Do young people ever have a blood vessel in the brain break?

REPLY

Yes, but should this mishap occur it usually results from an inherent weakness in the wall of the blood vessel (aneurysm). There is no way of diagnosing this condition in advance and it is just a matter of time before trouble ensues. When a brain vessel ruptures symptoms are similar to those after stroke and should the individual survive it often is possible to correct the condition surgically. Strokes of this type should not be confused with those resulting from high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries.

Belgian Gift-Elephant Poses Problem For GOP; Summerfield's Dining Room Squeezes Civil Servants Out; President Visits With Hagen Brothers

WASHINGTON—Republicans are faced with a serious challenge to the symbol of the Grand Old Party—the elephant.

A prize African elephant has been given to the National Zoo in the nation's capital by the government of Belgium, but thanks to the current economy wave, the Republican administration hasn't got the money to bring the elephant to the United States.

It hasn't got the money even though the Belgian government will transport this symbol of the GOP in a Sabena airline plane free.

Gift of the elephant was arranged by Mrs. Molly Thayer, associate director of the American Forum of the Air, through the Belgian ambassador, Robert Silvercruys. And the elephant is now waiting patiently in the Belgian Congo. She is a female, seven years old, named "Maybe"—though some suggested she might be rechristened "Mamie."

Dr. William Mann, director of the National Zoo, has been scratching his head trying to figure a way to bring Maybe to Washington, since the zoo completely lacks an African elephant. Indian elephants, much easier to train, are plentiful in the United States, but African elephants are rare.

Dr. Mann, himself a strong Taft Republican, figured that things would be easy for him once his party got into power. But he now finds the zoo budget being cut back until he can hardly afford horse meat for the lions or fish for his penguins.

Maybe's Mahout

He has been able to scrape up the cost of a crate to house Maybe for her trans-Atlantic flight. This has to be a strong crate, since the Sabena airline doesn't want a young elephant kicking the sides out of the plane in midair.

Besides the crate, however, Dr. Mann has to scrape up the cost of bringing Maybe's mahout along. This is important; for the Belgians report that Maybe is a timid young lady and could not possibly cross the Atlantic without the trainer who has been her companion for six of her seven years.

Dr. Mann figures it will cost $1,000 to bring the mahout to the United States and send him back. Furthermore he has to buy the mahout some clothes. It would not be quite proper for him to arrive in the nation's capital clad in a jungle loin cloth.

So, for lack of a paltry $1,200, or at the most $1,500, the symbol of the Republican party stomps impatiently in Leopoldville, waiting for some generous Republican to clothe her mahout and arrange her debut in the capital of the United States.

Maybe if the Republicans can't raise this money some of the Democrats ought to dig down in their jeans and help out. Or maybe the school children of Washington could contribute five cents each to bring "Maybe" over here.

These are the alternatives considered by the harassed Dr. Mann, who, Republican though he is, can't help thinking of those good old Democratic days when Secretary of the Interior Ickes nonchalantly phoned to ask if he would like to have $870,000 to build a new birdhouse.

Private Dining Room

In addition to economizing on the zoo, Postmaster General Summerfield, ex-GOP national chairman, has been making speeches on economy. What he hasn't mentioned in his speeches however is that he has ordered a suite of offices remodeled to make a private dining room for himself.

What the postmaster general did was to kick government workers out of four offices to make room for a lush, private dining room.

The four roms—1409, 1411, 1413 and 1415—had been used by employes of the Federal Communications Commission. They have just been handed orders to vacate so their office space can be "converted into a private dining room for the postmaster general."

NOTE: Another cabinet officer who doesn't believe that economy begins at home is Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who has cut everyone else's share of the budget but has set aside approximately $38,000 for government planes to fly him around the country.

Four Hagen Brothers

President Eisenhower, who has four brothers himself, got a big kick out of meeting the four brothers of GOP Congressman Harold Hagen of Minnesota the other day, particularly when he learned that one brother had played a strategic role in the Normandy invasion.

Norman Hagen, an international-known meteorologist, was one of the U. S. experts who helped forecast the weather one day before D-Day. Their prediction that conditions would be satisfactory was a tough one to make, because the weather on June 5, 1944, 24 hours before, was stormy.

"It was raining and the wind seemed strong enough to blow a house down," recalled Ike as he met the Hagen brothers.

Socialism On The March

When the British labor party socialized about 20 per cent of the British economy, many in the United States were outraged. But they say nothing about the socialization of about 25 per cent of the American power industry on the theoretical basis that it would improve our rivers. If, for instance, TVA were operated on a business basis, it would have to repay the Treasury for the investment of the United States in this enterprise.

The task force of the Hoover Commission calls attention, in its report on the TVA, to this part of the law establishing this enterprise which reads:

". . . in order, as soon as practicable, to make the power projets self-supporting and self-liquidating, the surplus power shall be sold at rates which, in the opinion of the board, when applied to the normal capacity of the authority's power facilities, will produce gross revenues in excess of the cost of production of said power . . ."

The total amount repaid by TVA to June 30, 1952, was approximaitely $40,000,000. The task force recommended a method of calculation, set up on a basis of amortizing the total investment in 50 years with interest at three per cent per annum. Such a calculation, brought up to June 30, 1952, would show that TVA should have repaid the Treasury the amount of $200,000,000.

It would be interesting to know exactly on what basis TVA works out a loss of approximately $160,000,000 to the Treasury and to the American taxpayer. What happens to that money? The difficulty with reading government figures is that ordinary accounting methods are not used and it takes great skill to discover where the money is hidden.

In this connection, it is important to note that in his campaign speech at Little Rock, Ark., on September 3, 1952, General Eisenhower said:

"Finally, we can have a completely honest government . . . a government that will report to the American people on every single item of responsibility concerning its stewardship."

Such a report on the entire TVA transaction is needed. It might be done with such simplicity as Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey employed in his statement of our legacy.

At Boise, Idaho, General Eisenhower said:

"Now, we have had for a long time a government that applies the philosophy of the left to government. The government will build the power dams, the government will tell you how to distribute your power, the government will do this and that. The government does everything but come in and wash the dishes for the housewife."

This is not unlike the speech ex-President Hoover delivered at the Case Institute of Technology on "Federal Socialization of Electric Power," in which he said:

"Free men can no more permit private economic power without checks and balances than governmental power without checks and balances."

Further, he said:

". . . The first step toward socialization was taken when the federal government undertook itself to generate and distribute this electric power from multiple-purpose dams. And now the federal government has taken further socialistic leaps by building steam hydro plants solely for the generation of electric power.'

To this, Senator Hubert H. Humphy said:

"A former President of the United States says, 'Let us get rid of the power dams and all the great public resources.' "

Of course, Mr. Hoover never said anything of the sort. The ex-President only advocated what he always believed, that the federal government make some money out of these plants by selling the power at a fair rate and by leasing government-owned plants to private enterprise, or to municipalities or to state governments or to authorities, like the New York Port Authority, which does a very good job in its own sphere of limited activity. In a word, the ex-President feels that we can no longer afford the luxury of losing money on enterprises on which we can make money.

Actually what is happening is that the federal government is in competition with private enterprise; the federal plants do not make a reasonable return and pay no taxes; the private plants will ultimately find it impossible to compete with tax-free government plants and will go out of business.

What is required is a non-partisan, practical, business-like approach to this problem in the best interest of the United States. If the government is in business, it ought to be for a profit.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Every administration is entitled to a chance to deal with new problems in its own way—provided it does not reject out of hand pointed lessons of experience.

The new loyalty and security program announced by the Eisenhower administration is drastic in some respects and lenient in others. About the only way the procedures will be finally evaluated will be by tests in individual cases as they arise.

Certainly nobody who examines the long, technical executive order issued by the President—prepared after many weeks of soul-searching study by his subordinates in the Department of Justice and the Civil Service Commission—will say that it is soft so far as Communists in government are concerned. If anything, it is a bit tough on the individual employe, who can in a case of abuse be thrown out of his job because he doesn't happen to play up to the whims of his department or agency head. He will have no right of formal review above the department or agency in which he has been employed.

No Review Board

There is not to be a loyalty review board now, as there was under the Truman administration. Hence there will be no regular system of post-audit of individual cases of suspected disloyalty where a department or agency has "cleared" an employe of charges. The reason given for abandoning the Loyalty Review Board is that there was no provision of law to permit its functioning. But the Loyalty Review Board was always an "advisory" board and final responsibility rested with the department or agency head.

In no case under the Truman administration was the Loyalty Review Board reversed by a department or agency head. The only instance occurred in the Vincent case under the present administration, when Secretary of State Dulles reversed the Loyalty Review Board, saying he had the legal right to do so which was, of course, correct. It isn't necessary for such a review board to have power to dismiss ineligibles, but under the last administration it was an unwritten law that the President would stand back of the Loyalty Review Board's recommendation. Under the present administration the plan from the beginning has been to alter the whole setup and eliminate the review-board system. This now has been embodied in the executive order.

There are some administration officials who point out that the Civil Service Commission, under the new executive order, may create advisory boards or committees to make recommendations as to the effectiveness of the procedures and that provision is made for study of defects. Experience may show that it is desirable also to create some sort of review system inside the Civil Service Commission, so that a technical staff may review and take action on the proceedings in any case before the departments or agencies where security or loyalty cases may have been considered.

There now is a disposition in the new setup to avoid the word "loyalty" altogether and make dismissals entirely on a "security" basis, with the elements of "unsuitability" strongly imbedded in the meaning of the word "security." For it is recognized that any immoral or dishonest person or individual of loose habits generally might become the victim of pressure or blackmail by agents of foreign governments. So "security" covers a multitude of sins.

Deserves Fair Trial

In general, the new program deserves a fair trial. Its weaknesses will become apparent as experience increases. Since the motivation of the present administration is to expose or remove bad security risks and not to conceal or try to defend them, as some officials in the State Department felt it was their duty to do under the last administration, there is every reason to believe that, if defects in the procedures arise, they will soon be corrected.

The one big weakness — the unfamiliarity of persons chosen to act as security boards in 60 different agencies with the ways and techniques of Communists and fellow travelers—cannot be corrected until the new administration gets its fingers burned by specific cases. For the Communist will lie about his connections, he will vilify his critics, he will cry out loudly about constitutional rights and how they are violated under McCarthyism and "witch hunts," and yet at the same time he will be a secret member of a Communist organization confident that he will not be caught. Or he will refuse to do his duty as a citizen and reveal his knowledge of criminal conspiracies even when he himself may not have been a part of such conspiracies.

It will not be easy to educate all the newcomers on the security boards to the tricks of the Communists—but the Eisenhower administration is going to try to erect as many safeguards as possible against gullibility or deception. A sincere purpose is being manifested by those who have the responsibility at the Department of Justice and the Civil Service Commission to make the new program accomplish the desired end—to drive Communists and their auxiliaries out of government.

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

Admiral Arthur Radford looks like a better and better bet to replace Gen. Omar Bradley as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The decision will presumably be made as soon as Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson can reach agreement with President Eisenhower. The question is whether Wilson's wishes or Eisenhower's doubts will finally prevail.

Wilson has wanted Radford for chairman of the Joint Chiefs ever since the President's pre-inauguration trip to Korea. When the Eisenhower party was on its way back, Radford met them at Pearl Harbor. He so much impressed and charmed Wilson that Wilson proposed him for the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs then and there, without further ado.

According to undoubted reports, the President answered that Admiral Radford was one of the two or three ablest senior officers in American uniform, fully qualified in every way to head the Joint Chiefs. But he added that Wilson had better not name Radford to the chairmanship until he had made quite sure that Radford's first loyalty would be to the secretary of Defense, instead of to the Navy.

Admiral Radford has since made a long visit to Washington, which seems, if anything, to have increased Secretary Wilson's enthusiasm for him. Wilson is one of those who "wants what they want when they want it." He wanted the famous radio entertainer, Arthur Godfrey, for a Defense Department number of the President's special commission on psychological warfare. When he encountered opposition, he carried his fight for Godfrey to the length of refusing to name anyone else for a considerable time. In the infinitely more important case of Radford, he is said to be equally determined.

Gruenther A Compromise

The President, meanwhile, has always opposed the extreme naval viewpoint which Admiral Radford has always stood for hitherto. Since the admiral is a man who fights for his view to the last ditch, it can be seen why the President has threatened to approve Secretary Wilson's proposal. The Air Force, where Admiral Radford's stand on the B-36 is only too well remembered, is also moving heaven and earth to block his nomination.

If Admiral Radford is not named, other possibilities are reported to be Gen. Alfred Gruenther, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg and Gen. Carl Spaatz. Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott has claimed the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs for the Air branch, and has taken the position that Gen. Spaatz should be called back from retirement if Gen. Vandenberg is not to be promoted. The argument that the chairmanship should rotate, which the Air Force presses, would stand in the way of the appointment of Gen. Gruenther. But he is favored by his closeness to the President, and his personal acceptability to almost everyone as a compromise choice.

Nonetheless, Admiral Radford is the best bet because of the strength and determination of Secretary Wilson's support. It must be added that the appointment, if it goes through, can be counted on to influence Ameircan policy in all sorts of significant ways.

In the first place, Secretary Wilson is a man of strong likes and dislikes whose personal opinions are seldom subject to change except by the very small number of persons he fully trusts and approves of. The opinions that he brought to Washington, about the right relationship between the defense effort and the budget, do not appear to have been shaken very much by anyone now on duty in the Pentagon. But Admiral Radford can be counted on to plead the cause of adequate national defense with great force, and he can also be counted on to impress Secretary Wilson.

Favors A Show-Down

Then too, the admiral belongs to the school of American officers who have little or no patience with mere containment in the contest of the cold war. He has strongly advocated a blockade of Communist China, as part of a larger program to make the Peking government regret its intervention in Korea. He has shown a strong preference, in many other ways, for bringing the cold war contest to a rapid and complete showdown.

In this respect, Radford could hardly differ more widely from the present Joint Chiefs, whose caution is illustrated by their intensely hostile reception of the Radford blockade plan and Gen. James Van Fleet's comparable plan for a ground offensive on the Korean peninsula. In fact, this new quality and outlook Radford would bring to the Joint Chiefs would probably prove far more important, in the long run, than his loyalty to the Navy and his suspicion of the Strategic Air Command.

In addition, Radford has one of the most compelling personalities and one of the best intellectual equipments of any man in American public life. Bringing such a man, with such a temperament, into a place of such great power and influence as the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs, is almost certain to mark a major turning point, whether or no this is the intention.

Hampstead Woman Heads First District Federation

Outstanding Projects Cited

Election of officers and reports featured the 32nd annual meeting of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday. The meeting was held at the Ali Ghan Country Club with Mrs. William A. Douglas presiding.

Mrs. F. William Tillinghast, Hampstead, was elected First District president; Mrs. E. Irving Baumgartner, Oakland, vice president; Mrs. C. Earl Blankenship, Sikesville, recording secretary; and Mrs. Clifford M. Yinger, Frederick, treasurer.

The installation was conducted by Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming, St. Michaels, president of the Maryland Federation. She also addressed the group briefly thanking the women for their help in her candidacy and asked their cooperation during her administration; and told of the plans for the coming years. She announced that General Federation meeting in Washington, May 25-29, has designated the 28th as "Maryland Day." Members may attend all meetings in Constitution Hall. Delegates will attend their region dinner, and Maryland is in the South-Eastern region of the United States.

Urging cooperation, Mrs. Fleming asked all clubs to continue the projects which help the Red Cross, cancer fund, heart fund, and all ways of a civic nature. She stressed the importance of an active interest in club work and community to make a good district and General Federation.

Mrs. Douglas listed as the outstanding projects of the district, sponsoring a civic orchestra, organizing a free community library, planning and carrying out a complete landscaping project for a county infirmary, raising funds for a hospital equipment loan-out closet, presenting weekly programs in a mental hospital, providing chaperones for teenage dances and providing a TV set for a county home.

She also said the First District contributions for philanthropies and youth development, including a scholarship, totaled $2,312. Mrs. Douglas reported the 14 clubs of the district total a membership of 881. In reviewing the work for the past two years, she announced the program was to build better future citizens by working in the home, schools, church and communities. Community and welfare activities of each club were reported, by the club presidents.

The entertainment program consisted of a condensed version of the "Merchant of Venice," by William B. Ludman, Shakespearean reader. He first explained the characters and gave an outline of the story, which he illustrated with quotations. The Choral Group of the Woman's Civic Club sang, "I Heard a Forest Praying," and "Think On Me." Mrs. William H. Buchholtz sang, "Hark, Hark the Lark." Both were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ludman. Mrs. Frederick W. Thayer, Oakland, was in charge of the program.

A memorial service for the five members of the First District, who died this year was given by Mrs. G. Maurice Eburg, Hampstead; and a part of the 23 Psalm was sung by Mrs. Chester T. Williams, with Mrs. Lawrence Nugent at the piano.

The pledge was led by Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and Mrs. A. D. Heacox led group singing of "Maryland My Maryland." Greetings to the district were extended by Mrs. Charles L. Kopp as president of the local club, who also introduced officers and department chairmen. Mrs. Ray Brown, past district president and chairman of the Auditing committee, gave the Nominating committee report. Election returns were announced by Mrs. Raymond Etzler. Mrs. C. E. Schildknecht, Frederick, offered the invocation.

The Woman's Civic Club, Junior Woman's Civic Club and LaVale Century Club were hostess clubs. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Kopp, Mrs. F. Perry Smith, Jr., Mrs. Albert Tosh, Mrs. A. N. Golladay, Mrs. F. H. Ankeney, Mrs. George Young, and Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer. Pages were Mrs. C. N. Sanner, Mrs. Bruce Douglas and Mrs. Miles Thompson, Jr.

Zone 2 To Meet Today

Members of Zone 1 and 3 have been invited to the spring meeting of Zone 2, WSCS being held today at First Methodist Church, Bedford Street.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 with Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman presiding. Presidents of the various societies will give a resume of the year's work. An interpretation of the quadrennial goals is to be given by Mrs. R. J. Reuschelein, Mrs. Charles Montgomery, Mrs. H. W. Cessna, Mrs. Robert Young, Mrs. R. L. Wittig, Mrs. H. W. Shockley and Mrs. Walter Petrea. Mrs. Harry Bender is devotional leader.

Club To Hold New Partner Tourney

Tonight the Western Maryland Bridge Association is holding its annual New Partner Championship.

It is to be held in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel. All players must play with a partner they have never played with before in order to qualify for the championship, A. D. Heacox announces.

He also invited all bridge players as well as kibitzers to attend the third annual Western Maryland Sectional Bridge Tournament opening tomorrow night at the hotel. Play will continue Saturday and Sunday at the Cumberland Country Club.

The Master and non-Master Pair Event will open the tournament, beginning at 8 o'clock. All players with 20 or more Full Master Points qualify for the Master Section; and all others will participate in the non-Master section. Trophies are to be awarded in both events. Wellington Reinhart is chairman for the Masters section, while Mrs. David Sigel is chairman for the non-Master group.

Saturday at 2 p. m., will be the Men's and Women's Pairs Events. The Lazarus trophy will be awarded winners in the women's event and the William A. Douglas trophy, for the men.

Hampstead Woman Heads First District Federation

Outstanding Projects Cited

Election of officers and reports featured the 32nd annual meeting of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday. The meeting was held at the Ali Ghan Country Club with Mrs. William A. Douglas presiding.

Mrs. F. William Tillinghast, Hampstead, was elected First District president; Mrs. E. Irving Baumgartner, Oakland, vice president; Mrs. C. Earl Blankenship, Sikesville, recording secretary; and Mrs. Clifford M. Yinger, Frederick, treasurer.

The installation was conducted by Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming, St. Michaels, president of the Maryland Federation. She also addressed the group briefly thanking the women for their help in her candidacy and asked their cooperation during her administration; and told of the plans for the coming years. She announced that General Federation meeting in Washington, May 25-29, has designated the 28th as "Maryland Day." Members may attend all meetings in Constitution Hall. Delegates will attend their region dinner, and Maryland is in the South-Eastern region of the United States.

Urging cooperation, Mrs. Fleming asked all clubs to continue the projects which help the Red Cross, cancer fund, heart fund, and all ways of a civic nature. She stressed the importance of an active interest in club work and community to make a good district and General Federation.

Mrs. Douglas listed as the outstanding projects of the district, sponsoring a civic orchestra, organizing a free community library, planning and carrying out a complete landscaping project for a county infirmary, raising funds for a hospital equipment loan-out closet, presenting weekly programs in a mental hospital, providing chaperones for teenage dances and providing a TV set for a county home.

She also said the First District contributions for philanthropies and youth development, including a scholarship, totaled $2,312. Mrs. Douglas reported the 14 clubs of the district total a membership of 881. In reviewing the work for the past two years, she announced the program was to build better future citizens by working in the home, schools, church and communities. Community and welfare activities of each club were reported, by the club presidents.

The entertainment program consisted of a condensed version of the "Merchant of Venice," by William B. Ludman, Shakespearean reader. He first explained the characters and gave an outline of the story, which he illustrated with quotations. The Choral Group of the Woman's Civic Club sang, "I Heard a Forest Praying," and "Think On Me." Mrs. William H. Buchholtz sang, "Hark, Hark the Lark." Both were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ludman. Mrs. Frederick W. Thayer, Oakland, was in charge of the program.

A memorial service for the five members of the First District, who died this year was given by Mrs. G. Maurice Eburg, Hampstead; and a part of the 23 Psalm was sung by Mrs. Chester T. Williams, with Mrs. Lawrence Nugent at the piano.

The pledge was led by Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and Mrs. A. D. Heacox led group singing of "Maryland My Maryland." Greetings to the district were extended by Mrs. Charles L. Kopp as president of the local club, who also introduced officers and department chairmen. Mrs. Ray Brown, past district president and chairman of the Auditing committee, gave the Nominating committee report. Election returns were announced by Mrs. Raymond Etzler. Mrs. C. E. Schildknecht, Frederick, offered the invocation.

The Woman's Civic Club, Junior Woman's Civic Club and LaVale Century Club were hostess clubs. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Kopp, Mrs. F. Perry Smith, Jr., Mrs. Albert Tosh, Mrs. A. N. Golladay, Mrs. F. H. Ankeney, Mrs. George Young, and Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer. Pages were Mrs. C. N. Sanner, Mrs. Bruce Douglas and Mrs. Miles Thompson, Jr.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"We'll just have to eat it all week. Every time I try to divide one of those recipes for eight, I get in trouble."

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

Half of a billion dollars already has been chopped from next year's government expenses by the House of Representatives!

It is difficult to imagine how much money that is, but this action is what the Republican party pledged itself to, and what the people of the United States overwhelmingly voted for, in last year's campaign.

The reductions were made in the okaying of money for some of the smaller agencies in the federal government, in a bill called the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill.

There may be some people who will be affected through this reduction in the government payroll, and they will complain bitterly. But this one action can save more than three dollars for every man, woman, child and infant in the country.

Certain activities or services conducted by the agencies affected in this economy measure may have to be dropped. Then it will be up to the people to decide whether the work was important enough to ask state or local governments to take it over.

It is my opinion that this is one of the gravest issues of our time —one that must be resolved by this Republican administration: Should we continue to surrender, away from the people and to the federal government, the responsibilities undertaken in the past by local governments?

During the decades of the New Deal and the Fair Deal we were brightened into doing this by a shaky economy. We gave away our local responsibility in large part, and once you give something away it's hard to get it back.

Now, when I sit in Congress, I see around me body of men and women whose courage and integrity will, I think, dispose them to keeping the federal government only in that kind of work which is absolutely necessary.

There are obvious cases where government economy can go too far. It has been reported that the weather bureau at the Frederick airport, for instance, is to be closed on June 1.

Last Friday I wrote the chief of the Bureau in the Department of Commerce and asked him to review that decision.

"Our peach and other crops in this area are very important to the whole district," I said, "and the weather station, in the past, has played a major role in saving the crops from heavy frosts which hit the area periodically." I am awaiting his reply.

I enjoyed breakfast last week with Republican Women's Spring Conference delegates from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Two Gas Companies File For Rate Hikes

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — Two Pittsburgh subsidiaries of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., have filed with the Power Commission proposed increases in wholesale natural gas rates totaling $1,629,600 annually.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. wants an increase of $1,343,000 or 7.75 percent and Home Gas Co. seeks an increase of $286,600 or 3.4 percent. Both companies want to make the increases effective May 25.

Manufacturers supplies gas to 13 wholesale customers serving markets in Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and New Jersey. Home gas serves six utility customers in New York State.

Both companies already have other rate increase proposals pending before the commission which have been put into effect under bond. Manufacturers' previous increase amounts to about $2,200,000 and Homes' totals about $1,242,000.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"We'll just have to eat it all week. Every time I try to divide one of those recipes for eight, I get in trouble."

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

Half of a billion dollars already has been chopped from next year's government expenses by the House of Representatives!

It is difficult to imagine how much money that is, but this action is what the Republican party pledged itself to, and what the people of the United States overwhelmingly voted for, in last year's campaign.

The reductions were made in the okaying of money for some of the smaller agencies in the federal government, in a bill called the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill.

There may be some people who will be affected through this reduction in the government payroll, and they will complain bitterly. But this one action can save more than three dollars for every man, woman, child and infant in the country.

Certain activities or services conducted by the agencies affected in this economy measure may have to be dropped. Then it will be up to the people to decide whether the work was important enough to ask state or local governments to take it over.

It is my opinion that this is one of the gravest issues of our time —one that must be resolved by this Republican administration: Should we continue to surrender, away from the people and to the federal government, the responsibilities undertaken in the past by local governments?

During the decades of the New Deal and the Fair Deal we were brightened into doing this by a shaky economy. We gave away our local responsibility in large part, and once you give something away it's hard to get it back.

Now, when I sit in Congress, I see around me body of men and women whose courage and integrity will, I think, dispose them to keeping the federal government only in that kind of work which is absolutely necessary.

There are obvious cases where government economy can go too far. It has been reported that the weather bureau at the Frederick airport, for instance, is to be closed on June 1.

Last Friday I wrote the chief of the Bureau in the Department of Commerce and asked him to review that decision.

"Our peach and other crops in this area are very important to the whole district," I said, "and the weather station, in the past, has played a major role in saving the crops from heavy frosts which hit the area periodically." I am awaiting his reply.

I enjoyed breakfast last week with Republican Women's Spring Conference delegates from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Two Gas Companies File For Rate Hikes

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — Two Pittsburgh subsidiaries of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., have filed with the Power Commission proposed increases in wholesale natural gas rates totaling $1,629,600 annually.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. wants an increase of $1,343,000 or 7.75 percent and Home Gas Co. seeks an increase of $286,600 or 3.4 percent. Both companies want to make the increases effective May 25.

Manufacturers supplies gas to 13 wholesale customers serving markets in Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and New Jersey. Home gas serves six utility customers in New York State.

Both companies already have other rate increase proposals pending before the commission which have been put into effect under bond. Manufacturers' previous increase amounts to about $2,200,000 and Homes' totals about $1,242,000.

Queen City's Oldest Laundry To Cease Operations June 1

The city's oldest laundry, the Cumberland Laundry Company will terminate operation of its laundry, cleaning and dyeing facilities June 1, officials announced.

Services as usual will be continue until that time.

In order to avoid inconvenience to its customers, the Cumberland Laundry Company has made arrangements with the Crystal Laundry Company to have representatives of the latter concern on hand at the North Mechanic Street office of the Cumberland Laundry to assist any of their customers who wish to transfer their accounts to Crystal after June 1.

Crystal Modernized

The Crystal Laundry Company has completed a two-year modernization program at its plant on South Mechanic Street, George McA. Young, president, announced.

Practically all of the equipment in the Crystal's plant has been replaced with new machinery Young noted.

He said a revolutionary identification system has been installed. The customer's number is placed on each piece of laundry or dry cleaning in invisible ink which can be seen only under special lamps at the laundry.

In the past month, the laundry completed the installation of a new dry cleaning unit, Young said.

Capacity Increased

He observed the increase in the capacity of the plant during the modernization program will enable the Crystal Laundry to handle any additional volume.

The Cumberland Laundry Company, the city's oldest laundry, was located in 1892 in Butler's Alley which runs behind the buildings on the north side of Baltimore Street and was owned by W. L. Woodruff.

In that year it was purchased by three Pittsburgh men, J. R. Marshall, C. M. Wolff and J. Frank Eyman.

In 1893, the laundry was moved to its present location on North Mechanic Street. In 1907 it was incorporated, and in 1910 Eyman took over Wolff's interest, and in 1914, Marshall's holdings.

In 1947 Eyman, who resides at the Windsor Hotel, sold the laundry to the Friedland family of this city.

In the past 2,000 years, some 800 cities have been destroyed by earthquakes with a loss of perhaps one million lives.

Sound of thunder travels about one mile in five seconds.

Don't let your husband hear it from the boys!

(You tell him about the wonderful way you make sure of fresher, tastier coffee!)

You tell him how you test, right there in the store. Tell him how it gets you the choicest coffee ever . . . coffee you're sure will be rich and robust, that will suit his taste to a T.

Show him the news on the top of the Chase & Sanborn can. "See, dear, right here . . . it says to press with your thumb. If the top's firm, coffee's fresh. If it clicks, take another."

There's no way to test other coffee cans. Only this pressure packed can gives you sure proof of fresher coffee. No wonder "Pressure Packed" Chase & Sanborn has set tongues everywhere wagging—bragging! It's the freshest coffee ever packed, the tastiest you ever served!

Facial expressions are hard to control but voices are even more difficult! Here's a trick you should learn!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Difficult as it is to keep one's emotions from showing on one's face, it's even more of a feat to keep them from being detected in the voice. When it's one of your less worthy reactions such as anger or irritation it's sure to react to your detriment.

Harsh and shrill tones most seriously offend the ears of others and reflect adversely on your charm and winsomeness. They ring an alarm for all who hear them, immediately causing your listeners to post a mental guard against words.

Unworthy Words

Consider your own reactions to such tones and you'll recognize how natural such a response is. From early childhood, most persons sense that the words of an emotionally wrought person are apt to be both unreasonable and unreliable.

Sometimes your facial expression softens the harsh effects of shrilly spoken words. You may sound like satan but look like an angel or sound annoyed but deny it with a smile. It is when you are heard but not seen that your voice can be most damaging to another's concept of your personality. On the telephone or when you are calling your offspring from the second-story window your voice is your sole representative. Then it "sings" a solo about your mood, manners and control, pegging them either as good or bad.

Every charmer must learn how to avoid voice impressions that damage. However irritated you may feel, if you count to ten before you speak you can be sure you will voice your words in a fashion acceptable to other's ears. You will do so, if, while you are making your count, you take several deep breaths. Then let your words flow smoothly "through" your mouth in your normal pitch and, on the telephone, with your normal volume.

Warm and Winning

In so doing, you rid your voice of all antipathy, leaving it clear, warm and winning. Your desires will be more easily attained, and the standard of your private and public relations will soar to an all-time high.

If your voice has become chronically afflicted with either nasal or shrill tones, send for our booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice," which will show how to convert it to more winning, musical ways. Instructions are given below.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome sptaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10 in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bloodmobile Set For Cumberland Visit May 4, 5

A bloodmobile unit of the American Red Cross will return to Cumberland May 4-5 to afford area residents an opportunity to donate blood in behalf of the Allegany County RC Chapter.

Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, blood program chairman, said donors are being asked to report to the Eagles Building at 65 North Mechanic Street from 12 noon until 6 p. m.

In order to meet a 300-pint quota, Mrs. Helmrich stated, it is necessary to schedule approximately 500 appointments for the two-day visit of the unit from Johnstown.

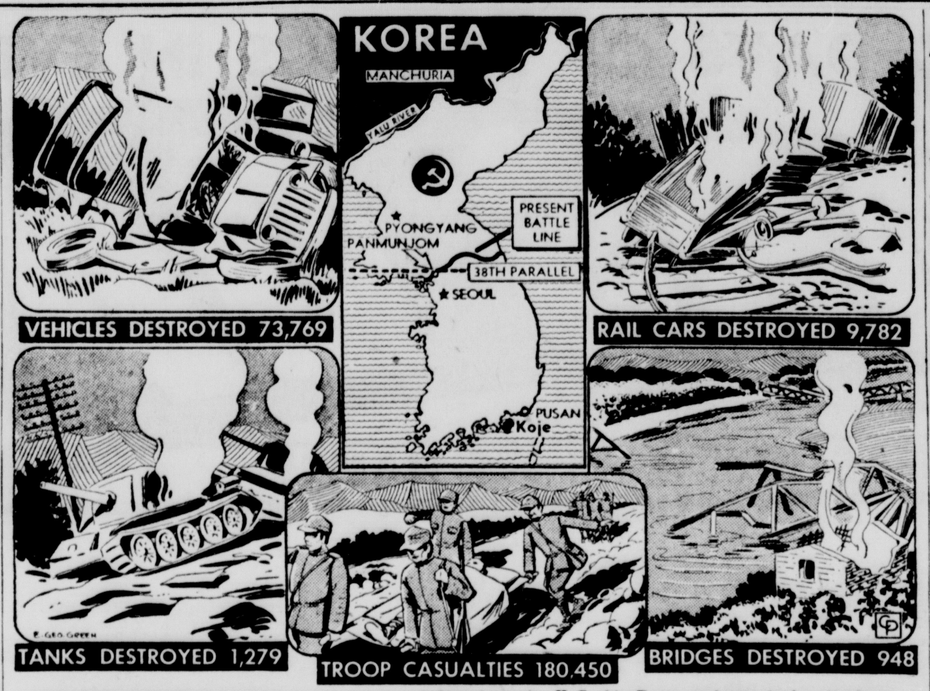
During a one-day regional blood bank here earlier this month, 231 persons had appointments. Only 118 donors showed up, excluding 55 "walk-ins". There were 142 productive pints of blood for the day.

Mrs. Helmrich said the chapter's donor quota has been increased to help provide additional blood needs to fill commitments made by the Red Cross to supply gamma globulin to polio epidemic areas.

Gamma globulin, only known substance which can provide a measure of protection against poliomyelitus, will not be distributed by the Red Cross, however. GG will be available to families this summer through the State Health Department under a plan proposed by a special committee of the National Research Council.

According to Mrs. Helmrich, extra equipment, personnel and processing expenses of supplying GG to polio epidemic districts will cost the Red Cross about $7,000,000. Since both the blood and the money to process it have been contributed by citizens, through the Red Cross, no one will be asked to pay for gamma globulin.

"The success of this program depends upon the willingness of people to cooperate", Mrs. Helmrich said.



THIS SKETCH CHART illustrates the destruction inflicted by the U. S. Air Force and attached units from start of the Korean war in June, 1950, to April, 1953, according to a compilation released by the United States Far East Air Force. The compilation shows a total of 724,160 sorties of all kinds. (Central Press)

Anti-Fluoridation Suit Filed By Two Taxpayers

News of another anti-fluoridation suit against a city government was reported by the Soil and Health Foundation, Emmaus, Pa.

In Greenville, S. C., two taxpayers have filed a "friendly suit" to determine the scientific value of the process and whether it is socialistic. Ten points presented in the complaint against the city government were:

(1) Fluorine is poisonous and is known as an insecticide and a disinfectant.

(2 Fluoridation of water for preventing dental caries is still in the experimental stage.

(3 It is not the duty of a municipal government to send money on experimentation.

(4) Wholesale fluoridation is extravagant waste, since most of any city's water is used in sprinkling streets, lawns and gardens, fighting fires and doing laundry. Application of fluorine to individual children's teeth is possible and practical.

(5) The cost of water fluoridation is excessive and would eventually result in raised water rates.

(6) Proof should be offered that the present water supply of the city does not already contain one part of fluorine to a million parts of water (the suggested proportion for the added fluoride.

(7) Proof must be forthcoming that added fluorine will not bleach clothing, discolor teeth of children who already have enough fluorine, will not injure sows,does no harm to pregnant women, cannot injure the kidneys or the bladder.

(8) The commissioners are introducing state medicine in our democratic economy, are practicing medicine without a license, and are in competition with the dentists. Dentists will lose business; dental students will be discouraged from entering the profession, and the public will suffer as a result.

(9) Fluordating the city water supply will destroy the child's initiative for taking care of his teeth and if the state is to pay for part of the medication why not pay for all of it?

(10)—The idea and execution of water fluoridation is the first step toward socialized medicine.

Water fluoridation his been endorsed by the United States Public Health Service as a measure for preventing dental decay in young children. The program has been inaugurated in many cities and rejected by popular or city government vote in many others. A bill (H.R. 2341) making water fluordation illegal has been introduced into Congress by Rep. Roy W. Wier, of Minnesota.

Bruce And LaSalle Score Bi-State Victories

Marple Hands Fort Hill 2nd Defeat, 8-0

Explorers Trounce Mt. Savage, 24-2; Connolly Is Winner

Dave Marple tossed a three-hit shutout at the Fort Hill Sentinels yesterday as Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's tossers dropped their second straight game, 0-8, in a Bi-State Conference tilt at Westernport. It was also the second whitewashing in a row for the Sentinels who lost Monday to Central, 3-0.

In another Bi-State loop contest LaSalle's Explorers found their hitting shoes and pummeled Mt. Savage 24 to 2 on the latter's field.

The lanky Marple lefthanded Fort Hill into submission with the aid of a six-run uprising by Bruce in the lower half of the sixth inning. Until that frame Marple and Ed Dickel had engaged in a hurling duel with the Westernporter ahead, 2-0.

Bruce took the lead in the second when Bob Shimer doubled and went to third when Leo Mazzone's sacrifice was erred. Shimer then was out at the plate attempting to score on a short passed ball but Mazzone advanced to third on the play. He scored on a sharp single by Tom Whiteman.

On the fifth inning Harry Foreman got a life on an error, was sacrificed to second, went to third when Dickel threw wild on an attempted playoff and finally counted on a single by Marvin Clem.

Marple struck out 10 Fort Hill batsmen and walked only two in registering his second victory of the campaign.

At Mt. Savage LaSalle scored in every inning but the third and wound up the rampage with 8 tallies in a wild seventh inning.

Mike Larkin had three hits for the Explorers while Barney Spearman belted a triple and Shaffer and Rickey Harris had doubles in a winning cause.

LaSalle used three pitchers with Connolly getting credit for the win.

The victory moved out of the basement in the nine-team circuit and dropped Mt. Savage into the cellar.

As You Were

(This is the 133rd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

The approach of another race meeting at Fairgo (June 13-24) should bring back memories of the early days of the bangtail sessions at the picturesque local half miler and the man who played a prominent part in the successful programs.

In 1925, a year after the Fair Grounds was opened, this popular Irishman of Baltimore came here as the Cumberland Fair Association's first racing secretary and he held that post for 21 consecutive years.

It was on October 6, 1925 that he made his debut here. Five-day meetings were conducted at that time and were held in conjunction with the Cumberland Fair. Seven races were run daily, the purses were $500, compared to $1,000 nowadays, there were never more than six starters in a race and only win and place money was paid the more fortunate bettors.

The first winner at Fairgo's initial meeting 27 years ago was Miss Fayette, piloted by Freddie Booker, colored rider. The payoff was $3.60 and $2.90. Emmy Lou returned $6.10 to place. In the 6th race on opening day four bettors collected $142.20 each when Lady George, a 70 to 1 shot, won the 6th race. Mortimer Mahony, whose son Riggs is now head of the parimutuel department at Fairgo, was director of wagering for Cumberland's first meeting.

In 1926 the number of starters in a race was increased to eight and the opening day was moved ahead to August 31. At this meeting Raymond "Sonny" Workman, who later became a famous jockey, led the winning riders with a 6-7-6 record. It was not until 1927 however, that show money was paid here for the first time.

The mutuel handle in 1926 was $200,000 for the five days. At 10-day sessions, which were launched in 1935, the wagering now runs between two and three million dollars annually.

The man pictured here was connected with at least a dozen race tracks from New England to Florida during the 1930s. At one time he was racing secretary at all of Maryland's half milers and at most of the milers. His popularity spread to Mexico City where he also served in the capacity of a racing official.

His son worked with him in the office at Fairgo in 1944 and returned here last year in the role of patrol judge.

Fairgo's first racing secretary occupied that position for the last time in 1945. Since he left there have been four different secretaries, namely, William M. Shewbridge, John Turner, Jr., Matthias "Ty" Shea and J. Fred Colwill.

The fair and racing were separated in 1948.

Today the man shown here is an executive at a major eastern track. In fact, he helped supervise the building of this swanky New Jersey racing plant.

What's his name?

He's Edward J. "Eddie" Brennan, now vice president and general manager at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N. J., which opens a 50-day meeting June 13, the very same day that Cumberland's meet gets under way. His son, Eddie, Jr., was patrol judge at Fairgo last year. The photo of Brennan was taken in 1927.

Men's, High School To Play 25 Games

Finals plans were made for the Men's and High School Rec Softball Leagues at a meeting held at City Hall last night, City Rec Director Robert Pence stated.

The leagues will begin play May 18, Pence stated and each team in the two circuits will play 25 games.

Six teams have been lined up to begin the Men's division while five organiations have slated themselves to participate in the High School section.

Pence stated that new teams may enter either circuit until the May 8 deadline.

In the Men's division will be Old Germans, managed by Ray Foreman; Parker's, managed by Richard Yates; Schute's Roofers, managed by Browne Shircliffe; Marine Reserve, with Jack Lee at the helm; Old Export, with Charles Detrick managing; and St. Mary's.

The High School league will line up with the Independents, Mapleside, Jimmy's Market, Police Boys Club and DeMolay.

The Men's circuit will play twice weekly on Mondays and Wednesdays while the High School division will operate on Tuesdays and Fridays, Pence said.

A Shaughnessy playoff is scheduled at the close of the regular campaign and best two of three series will be played both in the semi-finals and finals, he continued.

Teachers Host Shepherd Nine

High Schools Play Three Games Today

One collegiate contest and three high school baseball games are scheduled in the tri-state area for today.

Shepherd College's Rams will invade Frostburg to play Frostburg State Teachers College for the final game of their series. The West Virginians won the opener on their home field by the score of 11-1.

Moorefield High School will be angling for its sixth consecutive Potomac Valley Conference victory when it does battle with Franklin High's Panthers at Franklin today. Moorefield eked out a 4-3 decision over the defending champions of Coach Bob Hartman in the series opener on April 17.

Petersburg's Vikings (3-2) and Romney's Pioneers (3-3) conclude their series today in Romney. Romney annexed the opener, 10 to 5.

The third scholastic tilt of the day brings together Garrett county's only teams, Southern and Northern at Oakland. Northern, coached by Charley Strauss, won its opening game at Meyersdale while Coach Wilbur Swank's Southern tossers have scored three victories in four starts.

Davey Scores TKO Over Sam Giuliani

DETROIT, April 29 (AP)—Jabbing, stabbing Chuck Davey, seeking to replenish his pocket and pride, danced away from the bull-like rushes of Sammy Giuliani and scored a technical knockout over the game Stamford, Conn., youngster at the Olympia tonight.

Referee Clarence Rosen called a halt to the lively scrap at 31 seconds of the 10th. Giuliani obviously was hurt. When the two previous rounds ended, Sammy, dazed and wobbly, walked to the wrong corner.

Bruce And LaSalle Score Bi-State Victories

Explorers Trounce Mt. Savage, 24-2; Connolly Is Winner

Dave Marple tossed a three-hit shutout at the Fort Hill Sentinels yesterday as Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's tossers dropped their second straight game, 0-8, in a Bi-State Conference tilt at Westernport. It was also the second whitewashing in a row for the Sentinels who lost Monday to Central, 3-0.

In another Bi-State loop contest LaSalle's Explorers found their hitting shoes and pummeled Mt. Savage 24 to 2 on the latter's field.

The lanky Marple lefthanded Fort Hill into submission with the aid of a six-run uprising by Bruce in the lower half of the sixth inning. Until that frame Marple and Ed Dickel had engaged in a hurling duel with the Westernporter ahead, 2-0.

Bruce took the lead in the second when Bob Shimer doubled and went to third when Leo Mazzone's sacrifice was erred. Shimer then was out at the plate attempting to score on a short passed ball but Mazzone advanced to third on the play. He scored on a sharp single by Tom Whiteman.

On the fifth inning Harry Foreman got a life on an error, was sacrificed to second, went to third when Dickel threw wild on an attempted playoff and finally counted on a single by Marvin Clem.

Marple struck out 10 Fort Hill batsmen and walked only two in registering his second victory of the campaign.

At Mt. Savage LaSalle scored in every inning but the third and wound up the rampage with 8 tallies in a wild seventh inning.

Mike Larkin had three hits for the Explorers while Barney Spearman belted a triple and Shaffer and Rickey Harris had doubles in a winning cause.

LaSalle used three pitchers with Connolly getting credit for the win.

The victory moved out of the basement in the nine-team circuit and dropped Mt. Savage into the cellar.

As You Were

(This is the 133rd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

The approach of another race meeting at Fairgo (June 13-24) should bring back memories of the early days of the bangtail sessions at the picturesque local half miler and the man who played a prominent part in the successful programs.

In 1925, a year after the Fair Grounds was opened, this popular Irishman of Baltimore came here as the Cumberland Fair Association's first racing secretary and he held that post for 21 consecutive years.

It was on October 6, 1925 that he made his debut here. Five-day meetings were conducted at that time and were held in conjunction with the Cumberland Fair. Seven races were run daily, the purses were $500, compared to $1,000 nowadays, there were never more than six starters in a race and only win and place money was paid the more fortunate bettors.

The first winner at Fairgo's initial meeting 27 years ago was Miss Fayette, piloted by Freddie Booker, colored rider. The payoff was $3.60 and $2.90. Emmy Lou returned $6.10 to place. In the 6th race on opening day four bettors collected $142.20 each when Lady George, a 70 to 1 shot, won the 6th race. Mortimer Mahony, whose son Riggs is now head of the parimutuel department at Fairgo, was director of wagering for Cumberland's first meeting.

In 1926 the number of starters in a race was increased to eight and the opening day was moved ahead to August 31. At this meeting Raymond "Sonny" Workman, who later became a famous jockey, led the winning riders with a 6-7-6 record. It was not until 1927 however, that show money was paid here for the first time.

The mutuel handle in 1926 was $200,000 for the five days. At 10-day sessions, which were launched in 1935, the wagering now runs between two and three million dollars annually.

The man pictured here was connected with at least a dozen race tracks from New England to Florida during the 1930s. At one time he was racing secretary at all of Maryland's half milers and at most of the milers. His popularity spread to Mexico City where he also served in the capacity of a racing official.

His son worked with him in the office at Fairgo in 1944 and returned here last year in the role of patrol judge.

Fairgo's first racing secretary occupied that position for the last time in 1945. Since he left there have been four different secretaries, namely, William M. Shewbridge, John Turner, Jr., Matthias "Ty" Shea and J. Fred Colwill.

The fair and racing were separated in 1948.

Today the man shown here is an executive at a major eastern track. In fact, he helped supervise the building of this swanky New Jersey racing plant.

What's his name?

He's Edward J. "Eddie" Brennan, now vice president and general manager at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N. J., which opens a 50-day meeting June 13, the very same day that Cumberland's meet gets under way. His son, Eddie, Jr., was patrol judge at Fairgo last year. The photo of Brennan was taken in 1927.

Men's, High School To Play 25 Games

Finals plans were made for the Men's and High School Rec Softball Leagues at a meeting held at City Hall last night, City Rec Director Robert Pence stated.

The leagues will begin play May 18, Pence stated and each team in the two circuits will play 25 games.

Six teams have been lined up to begin the Men's division while five organiations have slated themselves to participate in the High School section.

Pence stated that new teams may enter either circuit until the May 8 deadline.

In the Men's division will be Old Germans, managed by Ray Foreman; Parker's, managed by Richard Yates; Schute's Roofers, managed by Browne Shircliffe; Marine Reserve, with Jack Lee at the helm; Old Export, with Charles Detrick managing; and St. Mary's.

The High School league will line up with the Independents, Mapleside, Jimmy's Market, Police Boys Club and DeMolay.

The Men's circuit will play twice weekly on Mondays and Wednesdays while the High School division will operate on Tuesdays and Fridays, Pence said.

A Shaughnessy playoff is scheduled at the close of the regular campaign and best two of three series will be played both in the semi-finals and finals, he continued.

Teachers Host Shepherd Nine

High Schools Play Three Games Today

One collegiate contest and three high school baseball games are scheduled in the tri-state area for today.

Shepherd College's Rams will invade Frostburg to play Frostburg State Teachers College for the final game of their series. The West Virginians won the opener on their home field by the score of 11-1.

Moorefield High School will be angling for its sixth consecutive Potomac Valley Conference victory when it does battle with Franklin High's Panthers at Franklin today. Moorefield eked out a 4-3 decision over the defending champions of Coach Bob Hartman in the series opener on April 17.

Petersburg's Vikings (3-2) and Romney's Pioneers (3-3) conclude their series today in Romney. Romney annexed the opener, 10 to 5.

The third scholastic tilt of the day brings together Garrett county's only teams, Southern and Northern at Oakland. Northern, coached by Charley Strauss, won its opening game at Meyersdale while Coach Wilbur Swank's Southern tossers have scored three victories in four starts.

Davey Scores TKO Over Sam Giuliani

DETROIT, April 29 (AP)—Jabbing, stabbing Chuck Davey, seeking to replenish his pocket and pride, danced away from the bull-like rushes of Sammy Giuliani and scored a technical knockout over the game Stamford, Conn., youngster at the Olympia tonight.

Referee Clarence Rosen called a halt to the lively scrap at 31 seconds of the 10th. Giuliani obviously was hurt. When the two previous rounds ended, Sammy, dazed and wobbly, walked to the wrong corner.

Wynn Outhurls Kellner, Tribe Scores 2-1 Win

Mitchell Bats Home Both Runs Off A's

CLEVELAND, April 29 (AP)—Early Wynn limited Philadelphia to four hits today as the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Athletics, 2-1, and moved to within one game of the front-running New York Yankees.

It was Wynn's second victory without a loss and Alex Kellner's first defeat. Kellner had won three straight.

Both Cleveland runs were driven in by Dale Mitchell.

Mitchell hit a windblown single in the third for the Indians' first run and a liner in the fifth to give them a 2-0 lead. The A's scored their only run in the sixth.

Adcock Hits Record Homer, Braves Win 3-2

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Milwaukee First Baseman Joe Adcock crashed a tremendous 475-foot homer into the left centerfield Polo Grounds bleachers—the first batter ever to do it in a major league game—as the Braves defeated the New York Giants, 3-2, today.

Milwaukee snapped a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning by scoring the winning run on two New York errors and a wild pitch by Loser Hoyt Wilhelm.

Wynn Outhurls Kellner, Tribe Scores 2-1 Win

Mitchell Bats Home Both Runs Off A's

CLEVELAND, April 29 (AP)—Early Wynn limited Philadelphia to four hits today as the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Athletics, 2-1, and moved to within one game of the front-running New York Yankees.

It was Wynn's second victory without a loss and Alex Kellner's first defeat. Kellner had won three straight.

Both Cleveland runs were driven in by Dale Mitchell.

Mitchell hit a windblown single in the third for the Indians' first run and a liner in the fifth to give them a 2-0 lead. The A's scored their only run in the sixth.

Adcock Hits Record Homer, Braves Win 3-2

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Milwaukee First Baseman Joe Adcock crashed a tremendous 475-foot homer into the left centerfield Polo Grounds bleachers—the first batter ever to do it in a major league game—as the Braves defeated the New York Giants, 3-2, today.

Milwaukee snapped a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning by scoring the winning run on two New York errors and a wild pitch by Loser Hoyt Wilhelm.

Requests Payment For Funeral Expenses

A $1,000 damage suite seeking reimbursement for funeral expenses, cost of administration and direct inheritance taxes was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

oJhn Milkowski, through Attorneys Gunter and Geppert, sued Emma Marczynski individually and as executrix of the estate of Catherine Milkowski.

In his declaration, Milkowski says that Catherine Milkowski died December 13, 1950. Her estate consisted of a single piece of real estate at 1301 Oldtown Road. The estate was left to Emma Marczynski. She had insufficient personal estate to pay funeral expenses, cost of administration and direct inheritance taxes. Milkowski says that he paid these expenses January 30, 1951, totaling $814.30 and was promised reimbursement from the proceeds of the sale of the real estate. This recently was sold and Milkowski contends he had not been paid.

Truck Weight Amendment To Road Bill Not SRC's Idea

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP)—Chairman Russell H. McCain of the State Roads Commission said today it did not instigate more liberal weight limits for some trucks which got through the General Assembly as a rider to Maryland's big new highway building program.

An amendment to the highways bill exempted sand and gravel trucks—any truck hauling loose materials in bulk—from the 22,400 axle load limit set for other trucks.

Sen. Goldstein of Calvert County, Democratic majority leader in the senate, called it "the worst piece of class legislation I saw in Annapolis during this year's session."

Goldstein said the exemption "confers special privileges on one group of truck owners in the state allowing them to beat up our new highways with their heavy loads."

McCain said the commission did not have anything to do with the amendment and estimated its effect "will not be too bad."

The sand and gravel trucks still will be subject to the regulations for total weight of a truck. Their operators—mostly contractors and some of them contractors on highway jobs—contended axle limits are unfair to them because the loose loads are apt to shift. This they say, can cause a truck to exceed the axle load limit while it still is within the total weight limit.

"As far as I know," McCain said, "no member of my staff was ever consulted about it."

Goldstein said two members of the commission staff sat through a finance committee discussion on the proposal and "neither raised his voice against the amendment."

He referred to Albert S. Gordon, executive assistant to McCain, and Joseph Buscher, special assistant attorney general who is counsel to the roads commission.

The truck weight amendment to the 12-year, 568-million dollar roads program was offered in the House by Del. Henry H. Hanna, Jr., of Wicomico County.

After it was accepted by the House, the Senate Finance Committee voted to take it out of the highway bill. Then, on the Senate floor during the final hectic hours of the legislative session, the senate decided to let it stay in the bill.

It was pointed out at the Roads Commission today that Gordon and Buscher prepared the amendments which would have killed the Hanna amendment.

This was done at the request of the Senate Finance Committee after several senators had asked about the exemption for the sand and gravel trucks and had heard explanations by Gordon and Buscher.

County Agent Warns That 17-Year Locust Due Soon

This is the year for the periodical cicada or 17-year locust to make another appearance and County Agent Ralph F. McHenry has some advice for farmers who are preparing to war on the pests.

The brood that is to appear in late Spring and early Summer is Brood X. This is the largest single brood in the East and has been reported from Alabama northward, through to Vermont, and west as far as the eastern portion of Illinois in numbers and with scattering records from Wisconsin.

In Maryland this brood covers mainly the central portion. The insect may be expected around May 15 and will continue to emerge into the first week of June. They are gone by the end of June.

Soon after they emerge from the ground, where they have been living for 17 years, they mate and the females deposit eggs in groups or nests on the undersides of the twigs of fruit and forest trees.

The eggs are deposited in nests of 24 to 28 eggs each, the nest consisting of two chambers with a thin partition of wood between the rows of eggs. Frayed wood fibers extend out beyond the surface of the twig forming a protection to the enclosed eggs. These eggs hatch in from six to seven weeks and the larvae go into the ground and feed on the sap of tree roots for 17 years.

McHenry says that although the feeding of the adult seems to be innocuous, the egg slits may be very disastrous to the newly planted orchards or may reduce the crop in bearing orchards materially in the year following the cicada invasion. The egg slits rarely heal. The limbs are likely to break under the weight of fruit and consequently must be pruned out after the 1953 crop has been harvested. If not done, the branches will be seriously injured and the cuts may serve to harbor other insects, their eggs or wood rotting fungi.

Tepp (tetraethyl pyrophophate) has been found to be an effective spray against this insect.

Since the male cicadas emerge earlier than the females, there is a period following the first emergence of approximately one week before spraying should begin. Males are the only ones that "sing." The song is supposed to sound like a long drawn out "Pharoah," which lasts for about five seconds, terminates abruptly and is repeated at five-second intervals. It is preceded by the vibration of an inflated shell-like drum on each side of the body.

The singing of the male may so alarm the orchardist that he will want to begin spraying at once. By waiting approximately one week before the first spray is applied, it will be more effective and economical. It may be necessary to spray three or four times depending upon the location of the orchard in relation to woods and the abundance of the cicadas.

Fact sheets offering detailed advice for farmers may be obtained from McHenry's office at the Court House.

County Agent Warns That 17-Year Locust Due Soon

This is the year for the periodical cicada or 17-year locust to make another appearance and County Agent Ralph F. McHenry has some advice for farmers who are preparing to war on the pests.

The brood that is to appear in late Spring and early Summer is Brood X. This is the largest single brood in the East and has been reported from Alabama northward, through to Vermont, and west as far as the eastern portion of Illinois in numbers and with scattering records from Wisconsin.

In Maryland this brood covers mainly the central portion. The insect may be expected around May 15 and will continue to emerge into the first week of June. They are gone by the end of June.

Soon after they emerge from the ground, where they have been living for 17 years, they mate and the females deposit eggs in groups or nests on the undersides of the twigs of fruit and forest trees.

The eggs are deposited in nests of 24 to 28 eggs each, the nest consisting of two chambers with a thin partition of wood between the rows of eggs. Frayed wood fibers extend out beyond the surface of the twig forming a protection to the enclosed eggs. These eggs hatch in from six to seven weeks and the larvae go into the ground and feed on the sap of tree roots for 17 years.

McHenry says that although the feeding of the adult seems to be innocuous, the egg slits may be very disastrous to the newly planted orchards or may reduce the crop in bearing orchards materially in the year following the cicada invasion. The egg slits rarely heal. The limbs are likely to break under the weight of fruit and consequently must be pruned out after the 1953 crop has been harvested. If not done, the branches will be seriously injured and the cuts may serve to harbor other insects, their eggs or wood rotting fungi.

Tepp (tetraethyl pyrophophate) has been found to be an effective spray against this insect.

Since the male cicadas emerge earlier than the females, there is a period following the first emergence of approximately one week before spraying should begin. Males are the only ones that "sing." The song is supposed to sound like a long drawn out "Pharoah," which lasts for about five seconds, terminates abruptly and is repeated at five-second intervals. It is preceded by the vibration of an inflated shell-like drum on each side of the body.

The singing of the male may so alarm the orchardist that he will want to begin spraying at once. By waiting approximately one week before the first spray is applied, it will be more effective and economical. It may be necessary to spray three or four times depending upon the location of the orchard in relation to woods and the abundance of the cicadas.

Fact sheets offering detailed advice for farmers may be obtained from McHenry's office at the Court House.

Magistrates Work Cited In Survey

An increase in the workload of magistrates in Allegany County is shown in a survey made for State Senator Robert B. Kimble, the author of the bill that gave all but two of the county officials pay increases.

The survey was taken in three representative courts in the county Cumberland, Westernport and Cresaptown by Donald W. Mason who during a leave of absence from the Cumberland Trial Magistrates Court served as legislative assistant to Kimble, the State Senate minority party leader.

In Cumberland court the summary shows motor vehicle cases rose in number from 1,021 in 1951 to 1,194 in 1952, an increase of 173 or 19 per cent.

The amount of fines rose from $9,666 in 1951 to $15,355, an increase of $5,689 or 85 per cent.

The number of civil cases jumped from 880 in 1951 to 1,125 in 1952, with costs boosted from $850.50 to $1,341, an increase of 50 per cent.

Criminal cases, fines and costs went from 194 in 1951 to 289 in 1952, with fines and costs increasing from $364.85 to $1,115.25, a jump of 300 per cent.

In the Trial Magistrates Court at Westernport, the workload increased in motor vehicles cases from 319 to 367 last year, with fines going up 40 per cent from $2,700 to $3,839.

Criminal cases jumped 95 per cent from 34 to 61, with fines boosted $360.24 from 164 to $524, an increase of 125 per cent.

Civil cases were up 20 per cent from 29 to 36 with costs in these trials jumping from $38 to $47.

At Cresaptown, motor vehicle cases went up 65 from 126 in 1951 to 191 in 1952. Fines jumped from $800 in 1951 to $1,435 in 1952, an increase of 80 per cent.

Trial Magistrate William Meagher reported there also was an increase in the number of civil, criminal and Game and Inland Fish Commission cases handled. The number of dog licenses issued also went up.

Special Meeting Set By Scottish Rite Body

A special meeting of Meredith Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite, will be held at Masonic Temple, today at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of voting on petitions.

Pair Sentenced In Car Theft

Two young men were given suspended sentences of six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The pair, William D. Lease, 22, of Bowman's Addition, and James W. Hendershot, 23, of 407 Race Street, pleaded guilty and was also paroled by Magistrate Donald W. Mason.

Police nabbed the defendants early yesterday on Springdale Street after they took an auto from the nearby Cumberland Express Company lot. The car is owned by Wilmer Merica, 401 Springdale Street.

Officer R. R. Hammann, who investigated with Patrolman John F. Daum, said Hendershot was behind the wheel. Lease was pushing the machine in an attempt to get the motor started, he added.

Lease told the court he was involved in an auto theft case in Ohio about six months ago, and was found not guilty.

Magistrate Mason ordered them to be of good behavior.

Officers For 1953 Named By Bankers

Group 1 Maryland Bankers Association held its annual spring meet Tuesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with election of officers and a talk featuring the affair.

John L. Conway, cashier of the Cumberland Savings Bank, was elected chairman of the association; Ralph Race, secretary of the Fidelity Savings Bank, Frostburg, was elected vice-chairman, and George A. Caswell, vice-president of the Second National Bank, Cumberland, was named secretary-treasurer.

Prior to the election the group of approximately 130 bankers heard a talk entitled "Your Money's Worth" by Dr. George W. McKinney Jr., financial economist of the Federal Reserve Bank, Richmond, Va. He was assisted by Robert Fentress, a member of the Public Relations Department of the Richmond bank.

Bankers from Baltimore, Philadelphia, Chicago and other metropolitan areas attended the meeting, presided over by W. Cecil Smith, First National Bank, Oakland.

WHY YOU GO BALD DEMONSTRATED BY HAIR EXPERT HERE TOMORROW

One of the most common causes of hair loss, the blocked follicle, is explained to a balding man by trichologist G. S. Bishop. Bishop's organization is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

Where you're growing fuzz you can usually grow real hair, trichologist says . . .

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 29 — New home treatment methods for growing thicker hair — and preventing baldness — will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., this Friday, May 1.

Trichologist J. M. Coyle, who represents Bishop Hair Experts, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. Friday at the Hotel Fort Cumberland.

Examine You Free

In making the announcement at the home office of Bishop Hair Experts, director Bishop said:

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to ease your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your case is beyond the scope of Bishop home treatment, I will tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

His method of home treatment, Bishop said, should not be confused with "mail order courses."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting treatment," he said. "There is no cure-all for every scalp disorder. Each of the 18 disorders that cause most baldness requires a special treatment."

Bishop says that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the nearest Bishop office.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Bishop trichologist at regular intervals."

Satisfy 90%

Does Bishop grow hair? Best evidence that he does is that his organization expanded quickly from one office to 13 affiliated offices in North America: Cincinnati, Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa, Atlanta, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Montreal, Mexico City. And in addition to these permanent offices, their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in many other cities.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declares Bishop. "We satisfy more than 90 per cent of our clients.

"But overcoming the average man's initial skepticism is really hard. He's usually quite desperate—and definitely baldish—by the time he nerves himself to consult a Bishop trichologist. All the time he's losing hair, he justifies his neglect with one of the old superstitions about hair; that baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose their hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss.

"What's worse, all the time he's losing hair, he keeps right on with the bad habits of hair care that cause him to lose hair.

Guarantee Satisfaction

"To overcome the average man's skepticism, we now offer a 30-DAY GUARANTEE," Bishop says. "You must be satisfied with results by the end of 30 days or your money will be refunded."

If you're worried about your hair, call the Hotel Fort Cumberland tomorrow for Mr. Coyle's suite number, then come see him between 2 and 9 p. m. for a free examination.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Adv.

WHY YOU GO BALD DEMONSTRATED BY HAIR EXPERT HERE TOMORROW

One of the most common causes of hair loss, the blocked follicle, is explained to a balding man by trichologist G. S. Bishop. Bishop's organization is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

Where you're growing fuzz you can usually grow real hair, trichologist says . . .

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 29 — New home treatment methods for growing thicker hair — and preventing baldness — will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., this Friday, May 1.

Trichologist J. M. Coyle, who represents Bishop Hair Experts, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. Friday at the Hotel Fort Cumberland.

Examine You Free

In making the announcement at the home office of Bishop Hair Experts, director Bishop said:

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to ease your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your case is beyond the scope of Bishop home treatment, I will tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

His method of home treatment, Bishop said, should not be confused with "mail order courses."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting treatment," he said. "There is no cure-all for every scalp disorder. Each of the 18 disorders that cause most baldness requires a special treatment."

Bishop says that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the nearest Bishop office.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Bishop trichologist at regular intervals."

Satisfy 90%

Does Bishop grow hair? Best evidence that he does is that his organization expanded quickly from one office to 13 affiliated offices in North America: Cincinnati, Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa, Atlanta, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Montreal, Mexico City. And in addition to these permanent offices, their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in many other cities.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declares Bishop. "We satisfy more than 90 per cent of our clients.

"But overcoming the average man's initial skepticism is really hard. He's usually quite desperate—and definitely baldish—by the time he nerves himself to consult a Bishop trichologist. All the time he's losing hair, he justifies his neglect with one of the old superstitions about hair: that baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose their hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss.

"What's worse, all the time he's losing hair, he keeps right on with the bad habits of hair care that cause him to lose hair.

Guarantee Satisfaction

"To overcome the average man's skepticism, we now offer a 30-DAY GUARANTEE," Bishop says. "You must be satisfied with results by the end of 30 days or your money will be refunded."

If you're worried about your hair, call the Hotel Fort Cumberland tomorrow for Mr. Coyle's suite number, then come see him between 2 and 9 p. m. for a free examination.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Adv.

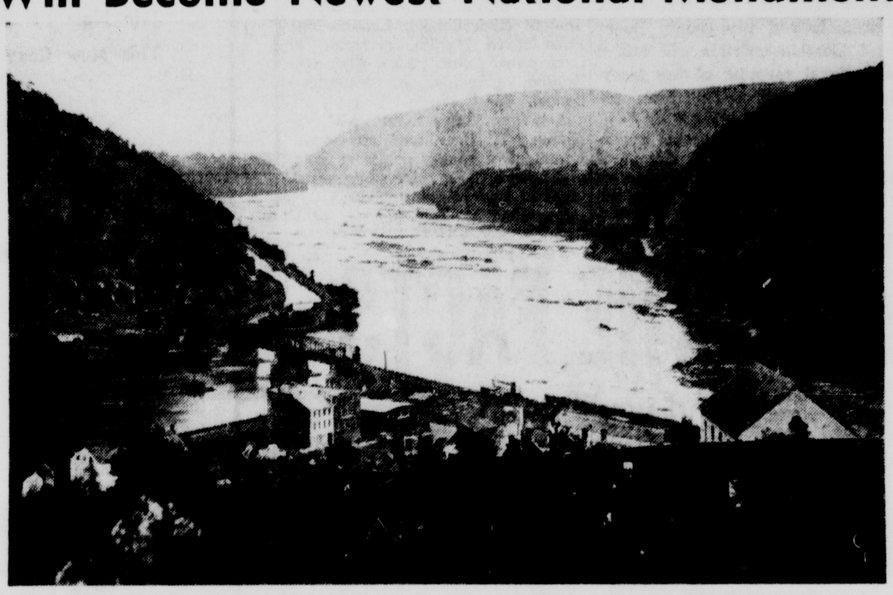
Harpers Ferry, Scene Of Stirring Events, Will Become Newest National Monument



Harpers Ferry—the ghosts of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, of Robert E. Lee and John Brown, look down upon this picturesque spot where the Potomac winds its way through the Blue Ridge mountains.

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. — Nature carved magnificent scenery where the Potomac and Shenandoah river waters merge and then dash through a gorge that severs the Blue Ridge mountains. Here George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and other visitors through the years have been charmed by the impressive majesty of nature.

Here the Shenandoah valley juts into mountains. Here the National Park Service plans to develop a 1,500-acre Harpers Ferry National Monument.

Stirring events of history have taken place at Harpers Ferry. Men have battled for possession of this natural strategic stronghold of land. Transportation routes to the wilderness beyond the mountains competed here in days of the nation's westward expansion.

Today you can see relics of those struggles; crumbling old buildings, stone foundations, the abandoned Chesapeake and Ohio canal conceived and sponsored by George Washington, railroad tracks over which freight and passenger trains have rumbled since 1834.

Part of Harpers Ferry today is a ghost town, still revealing ravages of Civil war struggles when the town was tossed back and forth between armies of the North and South. War, fire, flood, and plague have swept Harpers Ferry, and today only about 800 people live in an area formerly occupied by 3,000.

Although Congress authorized the secretary of the interior to accept land, buildings and other structures in the vicinity for the Harpers Ferry National Monument, only recently has substantial progress been made and the project assured.

West Virginia, appropriating $350,000 for the purpose, is well along with its share of the purchase of 700 acres. Maryland expects to acquire nearly 800 acres. Its task is more difficult because the land lies in wild mountain country. Maryland park officials have located the property owners of about half the area.

Sir William Berkeley, Virginia colonial governor, sent an expedition in the spring of 1668 to "find out the East India Sea." The group apparently reached the Blue Ridge summit overlooking the present site of Harpers Ferry.

Peter Stevens and an Indian became the first settlers in the spring of 1732 (the year George Washington was born) when they built a cabin near the confluence of the Shenandoah and Potomac. Stevens built boats and ferried wayfarers across the rivers.

Robert Harper, a native of Oxford, England, "discovered" Stevens' location in 1747 and was so deeply impressed with the region's primeval beauty that he bought the cabin and ferry. Harper for many years operated his own ferry across the Potomac. The town was named in his honor.

Harper built a stone house about 1775 on a solid rock ledge overlooking the Potomac. This Harper House still stands and will be a point of interest in the National Monument.

Young George Washington and George William Fairfax surveyed in the area in 1748. Washington's interest in the region and recognition of its natural water power caused him in the 1790s to insist that the government buy land at Harpers Ferry for the nation's second arsenal and armory. These buildings were destroyed during the Civil war, but you can still see their foundations.

"You can stand on a very high point of land; on your right comes up the Shenandoah, having ranged along the foot of the mountains a hundred miles to find a vent; on your left approaches the Potomac, in quest of a passage also. In the moment of their junction they rush together against the mountain, rend it asunder, and pass off to the sea. The scene is worth a voyage across the Atlantic." So said Thomas Jefferson.

John Brown's frustrated effort to arm an Abolitionist movement in 1859 took place at the armory and arsenal in Harpers Ferry. Col. Robert E. Lee, who later headed the Confederate armies, led the United States Marines who captured Brown. The engine house where Brown barricaded himself and his followers, known as John Brown's Fort, has been rebuilt on the campus of Storer college in Harpers Ferry.

Brown was hanged at nearby Charles Town, W. Va., and the gruesome parade to the scaffold attracted a large crowd of townspeople. Brown rode on a creaking wooden wagon atop his own coffin.

Accompanying the Abolitionist were the sheriff, the jailer, and the undertaker. Guards marched behind. Townspeople followed the guards, on foot, astride horses, and on wagons.

Brown climbed up the scaffold — so the story goes — stood surveying the peaceful countryisde that sunny forenoon, and said:

"This is a beautiful country!"

Annual Membership Roll Call Is Held

KEYSER—Queen's Point Lodge No. 78, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated the 134th anniversary of the order this week. The program featured the annual membership roll call, and 51 members answered roll call, responding with brief remarks relating to their memberships and activities in the lodge.

Five members sent letters of greetings and these were read when their names were called. Several members who could not be present sent personal regrets, through members.

Charles A. Steiding, deputy grand master of West Virginia, gave a report of activities of Past Grand Sire Thomas Wildey, in his visitations to lodges active in 1838, 19 years following the founding of the order.

In those 19 years, Wildey had participated in organizing Washington Lodge, No. 1, of which he was the first noble grand, and the grand lodge of Maryland, of which he was the first grand master.

Not satisfied with his successes, he went on to unify state lodges and form the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States and served that body as its first grand sire.

Through the work of Wildey and other pioneers in Odd Fellowship, evolved the Independent Order of Odd Fellows as it is today.

Rev. Lawrence Sherwood, member of Petersburg Lodge No. 408, was a visitor at the local meeting and spoke briefly.

The lodge voted to meet at 7:30 p. m. (EDT) through the summer. During May, there will be degree work exemplified, starting Monday. Wardensville Lodge is expected to bring a candidate for the first degree at the following meeting, May 11.

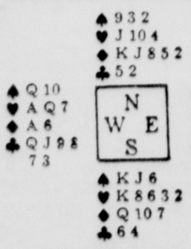
WHICH SETS UP FIRST?

IN A CLOSE No Trump contract, the outcome depends often on the answer to a clearcut question. Which side sets up its establishable suit first? Whether the contract be a mere game, or a slam, that matter of procedure can be decisive. Stated in reverse fashion, the determining influence can be which side manages to hold the longest its last stopper in the hostile suit. Of similar nature, on some occasions, is the problem of managing to retain a side entry until a certain suit is established, if the entry is extracted first, the suit dies.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♦
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 NT

Once you have the explanation of East's peculiar pass as dealer, you can understand his actions thereafter. He had made one of those rapid-glance passes without sorting his cards, and had failed to see the spade A at all. His jump to 2-Spades over North's 1-Diamond was for the purpose of correcting the initial mistake, after which the calling took a more or less natural course.

West required a good deal of optimism for his 4-No Trump call, despite East's big second-rounder, in view of the original pass, but he had none too much respect for the defending ability of North and South. Events bore out his estimate.

North, expecting West to be ready for a diamond opening, chose instead the heart J. That eased West's path. After his Q won, he led to the club A, brought a spade forth for the K to win, used the diamond A when the Q of that suit was returned, scored the spade Q, led to the club K, then ran the rest of the tricks in the black suits.

Notice what would have happened if North had led a diamond. Repeats of that suit would have destroyed all of the timing for West. With the defenders' suit set up, he could not have attempted a lead toward the spade Q, and so would have had to taste the dregs of defeat.

Stirring events of history have taken place at Harpers Ferry. Men have battled for possession of this natural strategic stronghold of land. Transportation routes to the wilderness beyond the mountains competed here in days of the nation's westward expansion.

Today you can see relics of those struggles; crumbling old buildings, stone foundations, the abandoned Chesapeake and Ohio canal conceived and sponsored by George Washington, railroad tracks over which freight and passenger trains have rumbled since 1834.

Part of Harpers Ferry today is a ghost town, still revealing ravages of Civil war struggles when the town was tossed back and forth between armies of the North and South. War, fire, flood, and plague have swept Harpers Ferry, and today only about 800 people live in an area formerly occupied by 3,000.

Although Congress authorized the secretary of the interior to accept land, buildings and other structures in the vicinity for the Harpers Ferry National Monument, only recently has substantial progress been made and the project assured.

West Virginia, appropriating $350,000 for the purpose, is well along with its share of the purchase of 700 acres. Maryland expects to acquire nearly 800 acres. Its task is more difficult because the land lies in wild mountain country. Maryland park officials have located the property owners of about half the area.

Harpers Ferry National Monument will contain many points of historic interest, besides the ever fresh and beautiful mountains and rivers — where nature shows little concern with the struggles of little man.

Sir William Berkeley, Virginia colonial governor, sent an expedition in the spring of 1668 to "find out the East India Sea." The group apparently reached the Blue Ridge summit overlooking the present site of Harpers Ferry.

Peter Stevens and an Indian became the first settlers in the spring of 1732 (the year George Washington was born) when they built a cabin near the confluence of the Shenandoah and Potomac. Stevens built boats and ferried wayfarers across the rivers.

Robert Harper, a native of Oxford, England, "discovered" Stevens' location in 1747 and was so deeply impressed with the region's primeval beauty that he bought the cabin and ferry. Harper for many years operated his own ferry across the Potomac. The town was named in his honor.

Harper built a stone house about 1775 on a solid rock ledge overlooking the Potomac. This Harper House still stands and will be a point of interest in the National Monument.

Young George Washington and George William Fairfax surveyed in the area in 1748. Washington's interest in the region and recognition of its natural water power caused him in the 1790s to insist that the government buy land at Harpers Ferry for the nation's second arsenal and armory. These buildings were destroyed during the Civil war, but you can still see their foundations.

Jefferson's Rock, where Jefferson penned part of his Virginia Notes, overlooks the confluence of the two rivers and affords a scenic view best described in Jefferson's own words:

"You can stand on a very high point of land; on your right comes up the Shenandoah, having ranged along the foot of the mountains a hundred miles to find a vent; on your left approaches the Potomac, in quest of a passage also. In the moment of their junction they rush together against the mountain, rend it asunder, and pass off to the sea. The scene is worth a voyage across the Atlantic." So said Thomas Jefferson.

John Brown's frustrated effort to arm an Abolitionist movement in 1859 took place at the armory and arsenal in Harpers Ferry. Col. Robert E. Lee, who later headed the Confederate armies, led the United States Marines who captured Brown. The engine house where Brown barricaded himself and his followers, known as John Brown's Fort, has been rebuilt on the campus of Storer college in Harpers Ferry.

Brown was hanged at nearby Charles Town, W. Va., and the gruesome parade to the scaffold attracted a large crowd of townspeople. Brown rode on a creaking wooden wagon atop his own coffin.

Accompanying the Abolitionist were the sheriff, the jailer, and the undertaker. Guards marched behind. Townspeople followed the guards, on foot, astride horses, and on wagons.

Brown climbed up the scaffold — so the story goes — stood surveying the peaceful countryside that sunny forenoon, and said:

"This is a beautiful country!"

Annual Membership Roll Call Is Held

KEYSER—Queen's Point Lodge No. 78, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated the 134th anniversary of the order this week. The program featured the annual membership roll call, and 51 members answered roll call, responding with brief remarks relating to their memberships and activities in the lodge.

Five members sent letters of greetings and these were read when their names were called. Several members who could not be present sent personal regrets, through members.

Charles A. Steiding, deputy grand master of West Virginia, gave a report of activities of Past Grand Sire Thomas Wildey, in his visitations to lodges active in 1838, 19 years following the founding of the order.

In those 19 years, Wildey had participated in organizing Washington Lodge, No. 1, of which he was the first noble grand, and the grand lodge of Maryland, of which he was the first grand master.

Not satisfied with his successes, he went on to unify state lodges and form the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States and served that body as its first grand sire.

Through the work of Wildey and other pioneers in Odd Fellowship, evolved the Independent Order of Odd Fellows as it is today.

Rev. Lawrence Sherwood, member of Petersburg Lodge No. 408, was a visitor at the local meeting and spoke briefly.

The lodge voted to meet at 7:30 p. m. (EDT) through the summer. During May, there will be degree work exemplified, starting Monday. Wardensville Lodge is expected to bring a candidate for the first degree at the following meeting, May 11.

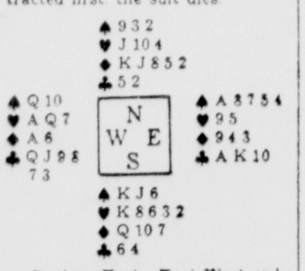
WHICH SETS UP FIRST?

IN A CLOSE No Trump contract, the outcome depends often on the answer to a clearcut question. Which side sets up its establishable suit first? Whether the contract be a mere game, or a slam, that matter of procedure can be decisive. Stated in reverse fashion, the determining influence can be which side manages to hold the longest its last stopper in the hostile suit. Of similar nature, on some occasions, is the problem of managing to retain a side entry until a certain suit is established, if the entry is extracted first, the suit dies.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♦
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 NT

Once you have the explanation of East's peculiar pass as dealer, you can understand his actions thereafter. He had made one of those rapid-glance passes without sorting his cards, and had failed to see the spade A at all. His jump to 2-Spades over North's 1-Diamond was for the purpose of correcting the initial mistake, after which the calling took a more or less natural course.

West required a good deal of optimism for his 4-No Trump call, despite East's big second-rounder, in view of the original pass, but he had none too much respect for the defending ability of North and South. Events bore out his estimate.

North, expecting West to be ready for a diamond opening, chose instead the heart J. That eased West's path. After his Q won, he led to the club A, brought a spade forth for the K to win, used the diamond A when the Q of that suit was returned, scored the spade Q, led to the club K, then ran the rest of the tricks in the black suits.

Notice what would have happened if North had led a diamond. Repeats of that suit would have destroyed all of the timing for West. With the defenders' suit set up, he could not have attempted a lead toward the spade Q, and so would have had to taste the dregs of defeat.

Tomorrow's Problem

What should South do if his 1-Spade is passed to East, who doubles?

C&P Plans Phone Work At Oakland

OAKLAND — The demand for rural phone service in Garrett County has resulted in the Board of Directors of the C&P Telephone Company to vote at its April meeting an allocation of $23,000 for expansion there.

The work will entail expansion of the complete system being handled by the Oakland office, telephone firm officials announced.

By the spring of 1954 when work will be completed, there will be an increase of 22 per cent in the number of lines that can be connected to the Oakland central office.

The number of requests for phones in rural areas has been large since the dial system was placed in operation a year ago in the Oakland office, officials noted.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 20—(INS)—After 10 years, Jeanne Crain, who started at 20th Century-Fox when she was only 15, has asked for and obtained her release. This gives her the chance to go to Europe July 1 to star in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

"Gentlemen Marry Brunettes" is scripted by Mary Anita and Richard Sale. Mary Anita is the niece of Author Anita Loos, who also wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Richard, formerly at 20th will produce the "Brunette" version for Films Location, Ltd., in three-D and in color. Jeanne's hair, currently flaming fire-wagon red, will, of course, have to be dyed to match the brunette title.

Arlene Dahl, on the telephone, happily chatted about her next picture for Pine and Thomas, "Chubasco."

"I can't even pronounce it," she said. "But it's another three-D and Fernando Lamas will be my co-star. We're going to make it in Magallan, Mexico," she added.

This time Arlene plays an angelic beauty who turns out to be as wicked as they come. "Chubasco" will be made as soon as Fernando finishes "Valley Of The Winds" with another redhead, Rhonda Fleming.

Cecil B. DeMille will be given 100 per cent help by the Screen Producers Guild in his work for the international information administration.

At a meeting of the executive board a resolution was passed offering DeMille, who was recently appointed consultation chief by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, all the facilities and production talent of the Guild.

This is a highly important move because it's absolutely necessary that film propaganda showing our way of life be circulated in other countries.

Mrs. Gary Cooper and Maria leave the 14th of May to join Gary in Europe. Everyone is hoping this means a reconciliation. Rocky had a wire from Gary from Cannes today, saying his sacroilliac is acting up again. Aside from that everything is very pleasant at the film festivities.

She and I had a good laugh over the rumor that she is going to marry Maurice De Jean, French ambassador to Tokyo. She never even met De Jean, and has no idea what he looks like. As for living in Tokyo, she says, "Can you see me living there!"

Joanne Dru, who had her troubles last week collecting child support from her ex, Dick Haymes, is in the odd position of collecting a salary from her present husband, John Ireland.

John has tied up with Lee Garmes to co-direct and co-produce "Outlaw Territory" in three-D and the first act of the partners was to sign Joanne for the leading role.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bette Davis, who is much sicker that has been printed, will rest for four months in Maine before she works again.

There's a big job looming up on a rival network for Ed Madden, former vice president of NBC.

Errol Flynn is reported down with a recurrence of yellow jaundice in Rome.

After Lex Barker sold footage taken at Sun Valley to Blake Garner for TV, MGM ordered Lana Turner cut out of the film. Such an appearance is against her contract.

Dawn Addams plans to go to Paris to see Claude Dauphin as soon as she finishes in "The Robe."

Carter De Haven had everyone at 20th looking for a very expensive ring presented to his by his daughter, Gloria. Up to now he hasn't found it.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Spy Suspects Seized

BERLIN, April 29 (INS)—West German police said tonight that five more suspected Red spies have been seized in raids this week—the second roundup carried out within the month.

Summer Look

NEW ORLEANS

New Orlon in New Orleans

THIS WEEK we're visiting the hub of Louisiana, where the temperature is already consistently in the 80s and next summer's men's wear is getting a full-dress preview before heading north. From here it looks as if one of the most popular new lightweight suits will be the Orlon Cord model (at right). It keeps its crease and resists wrinkles through many wearings, and is light and cool, even on hot days.

Observation: This city is like Paris—with a Southern accent! Royal Street has the type of shops you find on Rue du Faubourg St. Honore; and Bourbon Street, at night, is much like Place Pigalle.

Travel Notes: New Orleans is a mecca for tourists through most of the year and it's unwise to come without a confirmed reservation. . . . The Sugar Bowl committee, a group of New Orleans residents, donated the fabulous Sugar Bowl Stadium to Tulane University in exchange for the privilege of using it once a year—on New Year's Day.

Tourist Tips: Best button shop I've seen since Europe—Zula Fricks, 413 Royal, New Orleans. . . . Recommended beverages—Ramos Gin Fizz and Sazarac Cocktail. . . . Fine hotel in French Quarter—the Monteleone. . . . The best send-home souvenirs—pralines.

Food Notes: At dinner hour you'll see long lines of customers waiting in front of Antoine's, Galatoire's, Vieux Carre and Arnaud's. And the food is worth the wait! . . . These restaurants douse their lights each time an order of Crepes Suzettes is ignited. . . . A specialty in these parts is the "Poor Boy Sandwich," a huge meal between two slices of bread. . . . A seasonal delicacy is Buster crabs (no relation to the swimmer of similar name) They're like the soft-shell type but smaller and tastier.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—David Stern 3rd, who is publisher-president of "The New Orleans Item." The versatile Stern has been able to spread a whole lot of happiness and laughs with his wonderful stories of "Francis," the talking mule.

Portable Wardrobe: An indispensable trick when traveling is to take only clothes that will mix and match, in order to get a maximum number of outfits from a minimum of garments. For example, the drawings below show six of the combinations that can be formed by carrying a blue suit, a gray suit, a fancy sport jacket and checked pants.

Strategy Conference

PARIS, April 29 (INS)—French government officials met today to seek ways and means of preventing a dangerous new crisis in the worsening military and political situation in Indochina.

Ecuador is the world's chief supplier of balsa wood.

On The Line

"An elegant, airy montrachet" completed the "overture."

Then brook trout split and filled with ragout of truffles, mushrooms and vegetables, with a sauce made of butter, cream and port wine; breast of guinea hen with morels in an egg sauce, a "splendid pont-l'eveque;" strawberry ice cream, an arrange of patisserie, a rich full-bodied Chateau Lafite-Rothschild '24 and, with the coffee, a grande fine champagne '04 "the taste of which I still remember vividly."

Well, I can dream, can't I?

GM Sales Set Record

NEW YORK, April 29 (INS)—General Motors Corp., the nation's largest manufacturing enterprise, reported tonight that its combined civilian and defense sales in the first three months of this year reached an unprecedented $2,546,854,722. This was sharply above sales of $1,793,085,048 in the same period a year ago.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 20—(INS)—After 10 years, Jeanne Crain, who started at 20th Century-Fox when she was only 15, has asked for and obtained her release. This gives her the chance to go to Europe July 1 to star in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

"Gentlemen Marry Brunettes" is scripted by Mary Anita and Richard Sale. Mary Anita is the niece of Author Anita Loos, who also wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Richard, formerly at 20th will produce the "Brunette" version for Films Location, Ltd., in three-D and in color. Jeanne's hair, currently flaming fire-wagon red, will, of course, have to be dyed to match the brunette title.

Arlene Dahl, on the telephone, happily chatted about her next picture for Pine and Thomas, "Chubasco."

"I can't even pronounce it," she said. "But it's another three-D and Fernando Lamas will be my co-star. We're going to make it in Magallan, Mexico," she added.

This time Arlene plays an angelic beauty who turns out to be as wicked as they come. "Chubasco" will be made as soon as Fernando finishes "Valley Of The Winds" with another redhead, Rhonda Fleming.

Cecil B. DeMille will be given 100 per cent help by the Screen Producers Guild in his work for the international information administration.

At a meeting of the executive board a resolution was passed offering DeMille, who was recently appointed consultation chief by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, all the facilities and production talent of the Guild.

This is a highly important move because it's absolutely necessary that film propaganda showing our way of life be circulated in other countries.

Mrs. Gary Cooper and Maria leave the 14th of May to join Gary in Europe. Everyone is hoping this means a reconciliation. Rocky had a wire from Gary from Cannes today, saying his sacroilliac is acting up again. Aside from that everything is very pleasant at the film festivities.

She and I had a good laugh over the rumor that she is going to marry Maurice De Jean, French ambassador to Tokyo. She never even met De Jean, and has no idea what he looks like. As for living in Tokyo, she says, "Can you see me living there!"

Joanne Dru, who had her troubles last week collecting child support from her ex, Dick Haymes, is in the odd position of collecting a salary from her present husband, John Ireland.

John has tied up with Lee Garmes to co-direct and co-produce "Outlaw Territory" in three-D and the first act of the partners was to sign Joanne for the leading role.

In addition to his behind-the-camera chores, Ireland will also act in the picture with MacDonald Carey as the other male lead.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bette Davis, who is much sicker that has been printed, will rest for four months in Maine before she works again.

There's a big job looming up on a rival network for Ed Madden, former vice president of NBC.

Jimmy Stewart's privately-owned racing plane, forced down in Indiana, is being put in shape for Joe De Bona to fly it again.

Errol Flynn is reported down with a recurrence of yellow jaundice in Rome.

After Lex Barker sold footage taken at Sun Valley to Blake Garner for TV, MGM ordered Lana Turner cut out of the film. Such an appearance is against her contract.

Dawn Addams plans to go to Paris to see Claude Dauphin as soon as she finishes in "The Robe."

Carter De Haven had everyone at 20th looking for a very expensive ring presented to his by his daughter, Gloria. Up to now he hasn't found it.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Spy Suspects Seized

BERLIN, April 29 (INS)—West German police said tonight that five more suspected Red spies have been seized in raids this week—the second roundup carried out within the month.

Summer Look

New Orlon in New Orleans

THIS WEEK we're visiting the hub of Louisiana, where the temperature is already consistently in the 80s and next summer's men's wear is getting a full-dress preview before heading north. From here it looks as if one of the most popular new lightweight suits will be the Orlon Cord model (at right). It keeps its crease and resists wrinkles through many wearings, and is light and cool even on hot days.

Observation: This city is like Paris—with a Southern accent! Royal Street has the type of shops you find on Rue du Faubourg St. Honore: and Bourbon Street, at night, is much like Place Pigalle.

Travel Notes: New Orleans is a mecca for tourists through most of the year and it's unwise to come without a confirmed reservation. . . . The Sugar Bowl committee, a group of New Orleans residents, donated the fabulous Sugar Bowl Stadium to Tulane University in exchange for the privilege of using it once a year—on New Year's Day.

Tourist Tips: Best button shop I've seen since Europe—Zula Fricks, 413 Royal, New Orleans. . . . Recommended beverages—Ramos Gin Fizz and Sazarac Cocktail. . . . Fine hotel in French Quarter—the Monteleone. . . . The best send-home souvenirs—pralines.

Food Notes: At dinner hour you'll see long lines of customers waiting in front of Antoine's, Galatoire's, Vieux Carre and Arnaud's. And the food is worth the wait! . . . These restaurants douse their lights each time an order of Crepes Suzettes is ignited. . . . A specialty in these parts is the "Poor Boy Sandwich," a huge meal between two slices of bread. . . . A seasonal delicacy is Buster crabs (no relation to the swimmer of similar name) They're like the soft-shell type but smaller and tastier.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—David Stern 3rd, who is publisher-president of "The New Orleans Item." The versatile Stern has been able to spread a whole lot of happiness and laughs with his wonderful stories of "Francis," the talking mule.

Portable Wardrobe: An indispensable trick when traveling is to take only clothes that will mix and match, in order to get a maximum number of outfits from a minimum of garments. For example, the drawings below show six of the combinations that can be formed by carrying a blue suit, a gray suit, a fancy sport jacket and checked pants.

"An elegant, airy montrachet" completed the "overture."

Then brook trout split and filled with ragout of truffles, mushrooms and vegetables, with a sauce made of butter, cream and port wine; breast of guinea hen with morels in an egg sauce, a "splendid pont-l'eveque;" strawberry ice cream, an arrange of patisserie, a rich full-bodied Chateau Lafite-Rothschild '24 and, with the coffee, a grande fine champagne '04 "the taste of which I still remember vividly."

Well, I can dream, can't I?

PLUS 2 CARTOONS

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—A pox on this scourge of dieters, with their calory charts, their pompous propheths, and their heathen rites involving the eating of stewed ferns and basted yogurt. I have been casting out these tormenting devils of late by reading a book none of them would dare face, "Blue Trout and Black Truffles," by Joe Wechsberg, a delightfully drool fellow.

It has reinforced an old belief: Toots Shor looks better to me than Gayelord Hauser.

"Blue Trout and Black Truffles" is the most succulent book since Jan Mitchell's effort about ancient Luchow's titanic recipes. It is a kind of gustatory autobiography written with a splendid chateau lafite garnished with fine herbs and swimming in, well, let's try the sause that goes with the entrecote laperouse, a specialty of a restaurant that has graced the left bank of the Seine since the 14th century:

The casserole-sauteed sirloin is covered with a thick sauce made with the meat juice, minced shallots fried in butter, parsley and glazed with chablis.

Then, of course, there is La Tour D'Argent where in the 1500's a buck-o who had neglected to reserve a table, and wanted one immediately, would stride in and challenge a table-holder to a duel, pink him fatally, and take the table.

It is older than forks. Its early customers ate as all other Europeans ate, with the first three fingers of the right hand.

A night club columnist in the late 1500's wrote of La Tour D'Argent's decadence in these words: "The table was loaded with napkins and doilies, and the napkins were changed after every course. While I ate a succulent stew, I noticed four gentlemen who not once touched their meat with their their mouths and bowed deeply over their plates. Having no experience, I didn't dare do so, and merely ate with my knife."

Cardinal Richelieu liked La Tour D'Argent because of its wild goose served with plum sauce. Nearly a century ago Napoleon III gave Czar Alexander II and Kaiser Wilhelm I a luncheon there, and the menu is framed in the place's entrance hall:

Hors D'oeuvre, potage imperatrice, souffle a La Reine, filets de sole a La Venitienne, escalope de turbot au gratin, selle de mouton puree Brettone, poulet a La Portugaise, pate cahud De Cailles, homards a La Parisienne, sorbets au vin, canetons a La Rouennaise, ortolans sur canape, aubergines a L'Espagnole, asperges en branches; cassolette princesse, bombe glacee.

The wines were madere Retour De L'Inde 1810, Xeres Retour De L'Inde 1812, Chateau D'Yquem 1847, Chambertin 1846, Chateau Margaux 1847, Chateau Lafite 1848, and Champagne Roederer.

Nobody stopped at hamburg heaven on the way home.

M. Wechsberg's regard for food is such that he speaks with reverence of an eating club in Belgium whose members were forbidden to speak during dinner so they could truly appreciate the food.

He saves his headiest epicurean bout for last in the book, his account of a visit to the place of the great Fernand Point, the Restaurant De La Pyramide in Vienne on the Rhone.

M. Point's joint is not readily entered. Reservations must be made as much as three days in advance. Rich folk have been barred for life for smoking after the hors d'oeuvres. Cocktails are frowned upon, and no one dare order on his own. M. Point, after endless debate with himself, orders for each patron. M. Wechsberg wound up with pate campagne en croute ("never before had I eaten croute that almost dissolved in my mouth") slice of foie gras naturel truffe, hot sausage baked in light pastry shell with sauce piquante, a pate of pheasant, crackling hot cheese croissants, asparagus ("with a truly perfect sauce Hollandaise").

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—A pox on this scourge of dieters, with their calory charts, their pompous propheths, and their heathen rites involving the eating of stewed ferns and basted yogurt. I have been casting out these tormenting devils of late by reading a book none of them would dare face, "Blue Trout and Black Truffles," by Joe Wechsberg, a delightfully drool fellow.

It has reinforced an old belief: Toots Shor looks better to me than Gayelord Hauser.

"Blue Trout and Black Truffles" is the most succulent book since Jan Mitchell's effort about ancient Luchow's titanic recipes. It is a kind of gustatory autobiography written with a splendid chateau lafite garnished with fine herbs and swimming in, well, let's try the sause that goes with the entrecote laperouse, a specialty of a restaurant that has graced the left bank of the Seine since the 14th century:

The casserole-sauteed sirloin is covered with a thick sauce made with the meat juice, minced shallots fried in butter, parsley and glazed with chablis.

Then, of course, there is La Tour D'Argent where in the 1500's a buck-o who had neglected to reserve a table, and wanted one immediately, would stride in and challenge a table-holder to a duel, pink him fatally, and take the table.

It is older than forks. Its early customers ate as all other Europeans ate, with the first three fingers of the right hand.

A night club columnist in the late 1500's wrote of La Tour D'Argent's decadence in these words: "The table was loaded with napkins and doilies, and the napkins were changed after every course. While I ate a succulent stew, I noticed four gentlemen who not once touched their meat with their their mouths and bowed deeply over their plates. Having no experience, I didn't dare do so, and merely ate with my knife."

Cardinal Richelieu liked La Tour D'Argent because of its wild goose served with plum sauce. Nearly a century ago Napoleon III gave Czar Alexander II and Kaiser Wilhelm I a luncheon there, and the menu is framed in the place's entrance hall:

Hors D'oeuvre, potage imperatrice, souffle a La Reine, filets de sole a La Venitienne, escalope de turbot au gratin, selle de mouton puree Brettone, poulet a La Portugaise, pate cahud De Cailles, homards a La Parisienne, sorbets au vin, canetons a La Rouennaise, ortolans sur canape, aubergines a L'Espagnole, asperges en branches; cassolette princesse, bombe glacee.

The wines were madere Retour De L'Inde 1810, Xeres Retour De L'Inde 1812, Chateau D'Yquem 1847, Chambertin 1846, Chateau Margaux 1847, Chateau Lafite 1848, and Champagne Roederer.

Nobody stopped at hamburg heaven on the way home.

M. Wechsberg's regard for food is such that he speaks with reverence of an eating club in Belgium whose members were forbidden to speak during dinner so they could truly appreciate the food.

He saves his headiest epicurean bout for last in the book, his account of a visit to the place of the great Fernand Point, the Restaurant De La Pyramide in Vienne on the Rhone.

M. Point's joint is not readily entered. Reservations must be made as much as three days in advance. Rich folk have been barred for life for smoking after the hors d'oeuvres. Cocktails are frowned upon, and no one dare order on his own. M. Point, after endless debate with himself, orders for each patron. M. Wechsberg wound up with pate campagne en croute ("never before had I eaten croute that almost dissolved in my mouth") slice of foie gras naturel truffe, hot sausage baked in light pastry shell with sauce piquante, a pate of pheasant, crackling hot cheese croissants, asparagus ("with a truly perfect sauce Hollandaise").

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Charles E. Alther, who passed away one year ago today, April 30, 1952.
They say that time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Charles E. Alther, who passed away one year ago today, April 30, 1952.

They say that time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.

Wife, daughters and grandchildren.

Steels Lead Stock Market To Fourth Advance In Row

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP) — The Stock Market made its fourth straight advance today with steels providing the core of the inspiration.

The unbroken string of gains is the longest since late February when the market was advancing toward the high of the year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 50 cents, exactly the same gain registered on each of the two previous days, and closed at $108.90. The industrial component of the average was up 80 cents, the railroads up 10 cents, and the utilities up 40 cents.

The market was not as broad as yesterday with 1,105 issues traded as against 1,114 Tuesday. But there were 569 issues advancing and 273 declining with 9 new highs and 70 new lows.

Volume continued in the same restrained area it has been recently. It amounted to 1,310,000 shares as compared with 1,330,000 shares traded yesterday.

American Gas & Electric raised its dividend to 41 cents from 37½ cents previously paid. The stock was up ⅜ at 31.

West Indies Sugar, which yesterday lowered its dividend to 25 cents from 50 cents paid previously, was down 3 points at 21½.

None of the ten most active issues declined today. Packard Motor car headed the list unchanged at 5¼ with 18,900 shares traded.

It was followed by Jones & Laughlin Steel up at 23⅜, Intercontinental Rubber up ¼ at 4⅜, American Cable & Radio up ½ at 5½, and U. S. Steel up at 40.

Among other advancing stocks were Bethlehem Steel up ½ at 53, General Motors ⅞ at 62½, Willys-Overland ¼ at 15¾, Sears Roebuck ¾ at 58¼, United Aircraft ⅜ at 35¼, Zenith Radio 1 at 72½, American Telephone ½ at 154¾, Southern California Edison ¼ at 35¾, Kennecott Copper 1⅜ at 68½, Texas Pacific Land Trust 9¾ at 128¾, American Cyanamid ⅝ at 48⅝, Southern Railway 1 at 88, Baltimore & Ohio ¼ at 26, American & Foreign Power ⅜ at 9⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 70, and Texas Co. ½ at 53½.

Steels Lead Stock Market To Fourth Advance In Row

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP) — The Stock Market made its fourth straight advance today with steels providing the core of the inspiration.

The unbroken string of gains is the longest since late February when the market was advancing toward the high of the year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 50 cents, exactly the same gain registered on each of the two previous days, and closed at $108.90. The industrial component of the average was up 80 cents, the railroads up 10 cents, and the utilities up 40 cents.

The market was not as broad as yesterday with 1,105 issues traded as against 1,114 Tuesday. But there were 569 issues advancing and 273 declining with 9 new highs and 70 new lows.

Volume continued in the same restrained area it has been recently. It amounted to 1,310,000 shares as compared with 1,330,000 shares traded yesterday.

American Gas & Electric raised its dividend to 41 cents from 37½ cents previously paid. The stock was up ⅜ at 31.

West Indies Sugar, which yesterday lowered its dividend to 25 cents from 50 cents paid previously, was down 3 points at 21½.

None of the ten most active issues declined today. Packard Motor car headed the list unchanged at 5¼ with 18,900 shares traded.

It was followed by Jones & Laughlin Steel up at 23⅜, Intercontinental Rubber up ¼ at 4⅜, American Cable & Radio up ½ at 5½, and U. S. Steel up at 40.

Among other advancing stocks were Bethlehem Steel up ½ at 53, General Motors ⅞ at 62½, Willys-Overland ¼ at 15¾, Sears Roebuck ¾ at 58¼, United Aircraft ⅜ at 35¼, Zenith Radio 1 at 72½, American Telephone ½ at 154¾, Southern California Edison ¼ at 35¾, Kennecott Copper 1⅜ at 68½, Texas Pacific Land Trust 9¾ at 128¾, American Cyanamid ⅝ at 48⅝, Southern Railway 1 at 88, Baltimore & Ohio ¼ at 26, American & Foreign Power ⅜ at 9⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 70, and Texas Co. ½ at 53½.

Textile Workers Win Five Cent Wage Increase

Final Ratification Set This Morning

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), last night voted to accept a five-cent across-the-board wage increase at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation.

Final ratification of the increase will be taken at a meeting planned today at 10:30 a. m. in the union hall, according to Neil Toey, president.

3,700 To Benefit

Toey said the five-cent increase, negotiated under a wage reopening clause in the contract, will cover about 3,700 members of the union.

It will bring average wages at the plant to about $1.65 an hour.

A tentative agreement on the wage offer was reached late yesterday afternoon at the third negotiating session held on the wage request.

The negotiations began March 8. The present pact, which is effective until August 8, 1954, may be reopened for wage talks a second time this October 8.

Heading the union negotiators yesterday was Wesley Cook, New York, director of the TWUA's Synthetic Yarn Division.

Union Negotiators

Local 1874 negotiators were Toey, Melvin Harris, business manager; Ervin Lewis, vice president, and the following shop chairmen:

Lillian Burch, coning; Vito Dormio, spinning; James Summers, twisting; Floyd Grady, textile service; Thomas Powers, spinning preparation; Russell Bennett, bobbin stores; Donald Roach, cafeteria; Jack Murray, Fortisan; Dutch Carns, engineering; George Lyons, cellulose acetate, and John Fogle, acetone recovery.

Blaze Damages Area Residence

A five-room frame house at North Branch was damaged by fire of undetermined origin late yesterday morning while the occupants were away from home.

The blaze broke out in the kitchen of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Moore at about 11 a. m. Moore, his wife and two of their children were in Cumberland on a shopping trip. Two other children were in school.

Mrs. Norman Monnett, who lives next door to the Moore home, said she was minding the infant granddaughter of the Moores at her home when she noticed smoke in the Moore house.

Mrs. Monnett, whose husband is a member of the District 16 Volunteer Fire Company, went to the fire hall and turned in the alarm.

Firemen found the kitchen in flames, but were able to put out the blaze before it damaged the rest of the home. Members of the fire company said damage was surprisingly slight. The Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company also answered the alarm and stood by at the scene.

Firemen said they believed the blaze had started in a pile of kindling wood in the kitchen. No one was injured.

Vandalism Reported In City Tulip Beds

Don't pick the tulips which are blooming so gaily in city park areas.

They are like the frothy little hankies the ladies wear — for show and not for blow.

Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, park commissioner, yesterday appealed to all citizens to help protect the flowers which have been planted in the park areas for the enjoyment of all.

She said she had received a report that a woman was seen leaving the park area at Maryland Avenue after picking a large bunch of tulips.

Trailer Stolen From National Guard Unit

Somebody stole a quarter-ton two-wheel Jeep trailer from the State Armory parking lot over Tuesday night, the National Guard told City Police yesterday.

The olive-drab trailer had been left parked outside the Armory, but police said it shouldn't be hard to spot. It's olive drab in color and bears an Army serial number (01281682).

Roger Willison, 908 Maryland Avenue, told police his light green half-ton 1949 Dodge pickup truck was stolen from York Place in South Cumberland between 10:30 and 11:45 p. m. Tuesday.

Merchants To Open "Operation Hot Foot" On Pigeons, Starlings

Local merchants are preparing figuratively to give the hot foot to the swarms of starlings and pigeons which nest on buildings in the business area.

The drive, to be undertaken with the cooperation of the City Health Department and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, will precede the observance of Clean Up Week which will be marked here May 9 to 16.

Rosenbaum's, which has fought constantly for many years to discourage the birds which love to roost near the top of its building, will lead the drive with Schwarzenbach's and other merchants to follow.

The secret weapon in the campaign will be a compound designed to end the pigeon and starling nuisance.

Seek Roosts Elsewhere

It is a gelatin compound. Pigeons and starlings find it disagreeable underfoot, and especially disturbing to land on. Although the compound is harmless, it causes the feathered pests to seek roosts elsewhere.

The manufacturers recommend that after a building is cleaned, the compound be applied with caulking gun to the natural landing places. Aplications are said to be effective for about a year.

The Health Department wages a constant fight against pigeons and starlings, because they are nuisances and sometimes are carriers of disease.

The trouble is that you can't poison them, because of public opinion, and no known method will scare them away from a building for any length of time.

Information Available

Better designing of buildings would help, but that is not practical on existing buildings, except to screen openings where the birds enter to nest.

Trapping of pigeons has worked wonders in some buildings, but that requires a continuing program and is expensive.

Some cities have tried, with only moderate success, to discourage citizens from feeding the pests.

The Health Department is asking business firms in the downtown area to take steps to halt the pigeon and starling menace. About 14 firms are now being contacted.

Information about the gelatinous compound to discourage the birds is available from the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Kopp, in an interview in the magazines, expresses his pleasure with the new building, stressing the excellent lighting facilities possible with the use of the glass block designed into the structure by Minter.

Both Minter and Kopp state the features of the glass block walls for classrooms in the new school building not only help students study but were economical to use, costing only 59½ cents per cubic foot when building costs at the time ran over a dollar per cubic foot.

Damage Suits Are Heard In Circuit Court

Negligence Cited For Both Parties

Three damage suits stemming from a highway collision last May and heard in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday resulted in neither side entitled to recovery.

An opinion of negligence on the part of both parties was handed down by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris. The suits resulted from a headon collision on Oldtown Road when a car driven by Warfield Wilson collided with a car operated by Belmont Athey Jr., both minors.

Wilson, through his parents, sought $7,500 damages in two of the suits for property damage, personal injuries, and medical expense. Athey sought $500 damages to the automobile in the third suit.

The car driven by Athey overtook and passed the car driven by Wilson and as it apparently went out of control it turned around in the road and skidded into a right hand guard rail.

The Wilson car then collided headon with the other vehicle. Yesterday the Court felt while there was primarily negligence on part of Athey there was also some lack of due care on the part of Wilson which contributed to the mishap.

A total of three suits and two counter claims were filed in behalf of the two sides. Verdicts in each case were for the defendant and each side had to pay for damages, and the Court rules costs be divided between the two sides.

Attorney for Wilson was Thomas N. Berry while W. Earle Cobey was attorney for Athey.

Keyser Factory Workers List Strike Views

Meet After Rumpus At Garment Plant

Angry women workers of the Keyser plant of the Perfection Garment Company held a meeting yesterday following a rumpus in which a union picket sought a warrant against one of the employes' husband for "inciting a riot."

Purpose of the meeting was to make their views clear concerning the strike called by International Ladies Garment Workers Union last Thursday when negotiations between union and management broke off. Although the company's other two plants were organized last December, Keyser employes have refused to join the ILGWU.

Keyser workers yesterday said "We want the people of Keyser and vicinity to know that we are not against organized labor, but we want to be able to work and not be molested in our work."

Picket Seeks Warrant

The meeting was called after Nathan Lipson, Baltimore, a representative of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, appeared before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle for a warrant against Harry C. Marshall Jr., for "threatening the pickets, using profane language and inciting violence."

Justice of the Peace Bazzle refused to issue the warrant, telling Lipson that there was nothing in the West Virginia statutes to justify its issuance.

The altercation erupted when Marshall appeared at the lunch period Tuesday to see his wife, an employe at the plant. Marshall is claimed to have asked one of his wife's fellow employes if she was inside at the time. One of the pickets reportedly interrupted the conversation with, "Yes, the scab is in there."

An argument started and Lipson said Marshall urged the women employes to come out of the factory and beat up the pickets.

An outgrowth of the rumpus was the report of one of the two women pickets that she was struck in the mouth by a penny tossed from the second floor window of the plant by one of the women workers.

Select Spokesmen

At yesterday's meeting five employes were selected as spokesmen for the group. They were Jane Caldwell, Mary Riding, Jeannette Cook, Wilda Fazzalore and Madeline Caldwell, all of Keyser. Other workers asked that their names be used but the group only named five.

In a statement prepared at the meeting, the employes asserted, "We had no vote for or against a union, and we feel that we receive fair pay and have good working conditions and as a result, we think we do not need a union to look after us."

"Some of our privileges," the workers said, "are discussions between management and workers at anytime; we have music while we work; there are no time clocks to punch; we have rest periods; we can get a "coke" and candy any time we want, and we work on an honor system.

"We have birthday, farewell and Christmas dinners for our fellow workers; we receive an annual Christmas gift check, and we have hospitalization, sick and death benefits. We have vacations with pay and we feel there is little else we can ask for; we are happy and contented.

Workers Content

"Being a local group, transportation expenses are low." according to one employe, "Where can a woman, without a profession, or a college degree work locally and make more or even as much money as we do?"

Workers went on to say, "We are not 'scabs.' Martinsburg and Ranson, W. Va. factories have no union. They are still negotiating for a contract. We are not crossing

Police Find Relatives Of Fire Victim

From fingerprints supplied by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, the Federal Bureau of Investigation identified the dead man as Dean Edison Kimble, 35, a native of Davis City, Iowa. Although the FBI report said, "no next of kin", local authorities continued their investigation.

B&O Railroad Police requested more information from the Sheriff's Office at Davis City and were referred to a sister in New York City.

The sister, Mrs. Mable Reichert, 217 East 33rd Street, New York, N. Y., was notified and she motored to Cumberland yesterday to definitely identify photos taken by County Investigator Lilya.

Lilya said Mrs. Reichert mentioned another sister and a niece who were relatives of the dead man. Mrs. Reichert said her brother's address was the same as her own and that he traveled a great deal doing odd jobs.

Kimble was discovered by a B&O conductor after he saw smoke pouring from a boxcar of a moving train. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner, established death by asphyxiation.

Authorities at first surmised Kimble had started a fire inside the boxcar to keep warm and was overcome by the fumes. However, Mrs. Reichert yesterday told Lilya her brother was a continuous smoker and had often fallen asleep with cigarets burning his fingers.

Lilya said several short cigaret butts were found inside the car next to the body and theorized paper lining inside the boxcar had ignited from one of the cigarets.

Cumberlander Unearths Iroquois Indian Burial Site

A Cumberland man, working with heavy earthmovers on the New York State Thruway near Phelps in Ontario County, N. Y., accidentally uncovered an Iroquois Indian burial ground.

The Cumberlander, Holmes Atkinson, of the Capital Engineers firm first spotted a human skull lying on the ground where his earthmover had been working.

This discovery was immediately reported to authorities and members of the staff of the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences quickly came to investigate.

Further search by Atkinson uncovered the complete skeleton of a "chief" which lay on one side in a flexed or doubled-up position. Two or three more complete skulls were found by other Thruway workers and soon a great number of curious and souvenir seekers were wending their way to the ancient burial ground.

Officials estimated dozens of Indian burials, lying in the path of the great earthmovers and bulldozers on a little knoll near Phelps, are being scooped up by the giant machines and re-interred in the new roadbed being constructed.

Avid interest in the uncovered site brought hundreds to the scene with shovels in efforts to try to find relics in the torn-up ground.

Museum inspectors said they believed the skeleton uncovered by Atkinson to be a chief in the tribe buried on the site because the skeleton of a horse was buried beside the Indian.

Also uncovered by searchers and workers were ancient fire pits, rich in charcoal 18 inches thick, lying approximately a foot underground.

In addition to the "chief's" skeleton other complete skeletons were found and the museum group removed them for further study.

Both Minter and Kopp state the features of the glass block walls for classrooms in the new school building not only help students study but were economical to use, costing only 59½ cents per cubic foot when building costs at the time ran over a dollar per cubic foot.

The special features also note the general contractor for the building of the school was George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland.

The special layouts are being carried in Progressive Architecture, April 1953; Architectural Record, April 1953 and Architectural Forum, March 1953.

Damage Suits Are Heard In Circuit Court

Negligence Cited For Both Parties

Three damage suits stemming from a highway collision last May and heard in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday resulted in neither side entitled to recovery.

An opinion of negligence on the part of both parties was handed down by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris. The suits resulted from a headon collision on Oldtown Road when a car driven by Warfield Wilson collided with a car operated by Belmont Athey Jr., both minors.

Wilson, through his parents, sought $7,500 damages in two of the suits for property damage, personal injuries, and medical expense. Athey sought $500 damages to the automobile in the third suit.

The car driven by Athey overtook and passed the car driven by Wilson and as it apparently went out of control it turned around in the road and skidded into a right hand guard rail.

The Wilson car then collided headon with the other vehicle. Yesterday the Court felt while there was primarily negligence on part of Athey there was also some lack of due care on the part of Wilson which contributed to the mishap.

A total of three suits and two counter claims were filed in behalf of the two sides. Verdicts in each case were for the defendant and each side had to pay for damages, and the Court rules costs be divided between the two sides.

Attorney for Wilson was Thomas N. Berry while W. Earle Cobey was attorney for Athey.

Keyser Factory Workers List Strike Views

Meet After Rumpus At Garment Plant

Angry women workers of the Keyser plant of the Perfection Garment Company held a meeting yesterday following a rumpus in which a union picket sought a warrant against one of the employes' husband for "inciting a riot."

Purpose of the meeting was to make their views clear concerning the strike called by International Ladies Garment Workers Union last Thursday when negotiations between union and management broke off. Although the company's other two plants were organized last December, Keyser employes have refused to join the ILGWU.

Keyser workers yesterday said "We want the people of Keyser and vicinity to know that we are not against organized labor, but we want to be able to work and not be molested in our work."

Picket Seeks Warrant

The meeting was called after Nathan Lipson, Baltimore, a representative of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, appeared before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle for a warrant against Harry C. Marshall Jr., for "threatening the pickets, using profane language and inciting violence."

Justice of the Peace Bazzle refused to issue the warrant, telling Lipson that there was nothing in the West Virginia statutes to justify its issuance.

The altercation erupted when Marshall appeared at the lunch period Tuesday to see his wife, an employe at the plant. Marshall is claimed to have asked one of his wife's fellow employes if she was inside at the time. One of the pickets reportedly interrupted the conversation with, "Yes, the scab is in there."

An argument started and Lipson said Marshall urged the women employes to come out of the factory and beat up the pickets.

An outgrowth of the rumpus was the report of one of the two women pickets that she was struck in the mouth by a penny tossed from the second floor window of the plant by one of the women workers.

Select Spokesmen

At yesterday's meeting five employes were selected as spokesmen for the group. They were Jane Caldwell, Mary Riding, Jeannette Cook, Wilda Fazzalore and Madeline Caldwell, all of Keyser. Other workers asked that their names be used but the group only named five.

In a statement prepared at the meeting, the employes asserted, "We had no vote for or against a union, and we feel that we receive fair pay and have good working conditions and as a result, we think we do not need a union to look after us."

"Some of our privileges," the workers said, "are discussions between management and workers at anytime; we have music while we work; there are no time clocks to punch; we have rest periods; we can get a "coke" and candy any time we want, and we work on an honor system.

"We have birthday, farewell and Christmas dinners for our fellow workers; we receive an annual Christmas gift check, and we have hospitalization, sick and death benefits. We have vacations with pay and we feel there is little else we can ask for; we are happy and contented.

Workers Content

"Being a local group, transportation expenses are low." according to one employe, "Where can a woman, without a profession, or a college degree work locally and make more or even as much money as we do?"

Workers went on to say, "We are not 'scabs.' Martinsburg and Ranson, W. Va. factories have no union. They are still negotiating for a contract. We are not crossing

Police Find Relatives Of Fire Victim

Local authorities have located relatives of a man found dead April 18 in a B&O freight train boxcar near Gay Street.

From fingerprints supplied by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, the Federal Bureau of Investigation identified the dead man as Dean Edison Kimble, 35, a native of Davis City, Iowa. Although the FBI report said, "no next of kin", local authorities continued their investigation.

B&O Railroad Police requested more information from the Sheriff's Office at Davis City and were referred to a sister in New York City.

The sister, Mrs. Mable Reichert, 217 East 33rd Street, New York, N. Y., was notified and she motored to Cumberland yesterday to definitely identify photos taken by County Investigator Lilya.

Lilya said Mrs. Reichert mentioned another sister and a niece who were relatives of the dead man. Mrs. Reichert said her brother's address was the same as her own and that he traveled a great deal doing odd jobs.

Kimble was discovered by a B&O conductor after he saw smoke pouring from a boxcar of a moving train. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner, established death by asphyxiation.

Authorities at first surmised Kimble had started a fire inside the boxcar to keep warm and was overcome by the fumes. However, Mrs. Reichert yesterday told Lilya her brother was a continuous smoker and had often fallen asleep with cigarets burning his fingers.

Lilya said several short cigaret butts were found inside the car next to the body and theorized paper lining inside the boxcar had ignited from one of the cigarets.

Cumberlander Unearths Iroquois Indian Burial Site

A Cumberland man, working with heavy earthmovers on the New York State Thruway near Phelps in Ontario County, N. Y., accidentally uncovered an Iroquois Indian burial ground.

The Cumberlander, Holmes Atkinson, of the Capital Engineers firm first spotted a human skull lying on the ground where his earthmover had been working.

This discovery was immediately reported to authorities and members of the staff of the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences quickly came to investigate.

Further search by Atkinson uncovered the complete skeleton of a "chief" which lay on one side in a flexed or doubled-up position. Two or three more complete skulls were found by other Thruway workers and soon a great number of curious and souvenir seekers were wending their way to the ancient burial ground.

Officials estimated dozens of Indian burials, lying in the path of the great earthmovers and bulldozers on a little knoll near Phelps, are being scooped up by the giant machines and re-interred in the new roadbed being constructed.

Avid interest in the uncovered site brought hundreds to the scene with shovels in efforts to try to find relics in the torn-up ground.

Museum inspectors said they believed the skeleton uncovered by Atkinson to be a chief in the tribe buried on the site because the skeleton of a horse was buried beside the Indian.

Also uncovered by searchers and workers were ancient fire pits, rich in charcoal 18 inches thick, lying approximately a foot underground.

In addition to the "chief's" skeleton other complete skeletons were found and the museum group removed them for further study.
